

NATION OBSERVES ARMISTICE DAY

FINEST STATE CORN SHOW OPENS WEDNESDAY

VARIETY WILL BETTER SHOW OF LAST YEAR

Careful Selection of Exhibits Is Shown in the Entries Now Received

COUNTIES REPRESENTED

Practically All Sections of the State to Have Exhibits in Corn Show

The finest corn show ever held in North Dakota will open tomorrow. This was the verdict of officials of the North Dakota State Corn Show Tuesday afternoon, as the exhibits were being arranged in the show room, in the Annex Hotel building on East Broadway.

A finer variety of exhibits than last year, when the first state show was held, will be shown here, during the four days of the show, November 12, 13, 14 and 15. The exhibits come from all parts of the state with many counties making a special effort to win the corn championship of the state by taking the L. B. Hanna sweepstakes cup.

The show display room will be open tomorrow morning and will remain open morning, afternoon and evening for the four days. Judging will be by Dr. H. L. Walster and Prof. P. J. Olson of the North Dakota Agricultural College.

Unpacking Exhibits

Men were busy today unpacking exhibits and arranging them, under the direction of O. E. Anderson, floor superintendent. The exhibits are of better quality this year, A. F. Brudley, show secretary said. He said exhibitors had the opportunity to pick their corn in the field and because of the instructions sent out as to how to pick show corn. The fact that many local corn shows have been held throughout the state, to pick the best exhibits to be sent to Bismarck, has also helped to insure a finer quality of exhibits. A group of 10 exhibits from one town may represent the pick of 150 exhibits in a local corn show. The holding of local corn shows has been encouraged by officials of the state show, the object being to get a representative display of the finest quality, rather than endless numbers of exhibits.

Several of the exhibits here have been entered by individuals in the International Hay and Grain Show, to be held in Chicago, November 23-December 6. The matter of sending all the prize winners from the state show to Chicago is under consideration.

The L. B. Hanna sweepstakes cup was won last year by Sargent county, this going to the county whose exhibitors scored the largest number of points in the show. As the cup must be won three times in succession to be retained permanently, several counties are out to take the cup away from Sargent county.

There will be no program Wednesday, although the exhibits will be open to public inspection, but there will be programs the other three days. The program, to be at the city Auditorium, follows:

GREATER N. D. FUND DRIVE IS MOVING ALONG

Several Counties in State Have Completed Their Quotas. Is Announcement

HOLD RESPONSE GOOD

Valley City, N. D., Nov. 11.—Officers of the Greater North Dakota Association announce that several counties of the state have reported the completion of their county quotas in the state-wide drive for funds for the association with which to "sell the truth about North Dakota" in an extensive advertising and publicity campaign, the association confidently expecting by this method to increase immigration to the state and to enhance the good name of the state abroad among business men and financial interests.

Outsiders Are Helping

Several contributions to the fund have been received at association headquarters from persons outside the state who have seen the value of such a campaign and expressed a willingness to help in the good work. The most notable person contributing to the fund so far has been L. C. Com. John Philip Sousa, who recently gave a concert at Valley City and, hearing of the state-wide movement proposed, expressed a desire to help in the work. He contributed twenty-five dollars to the fund.

One Dollar Each

The fund is being raised on the basis of one dollar per family in the towns and cities and one dollar per quarter section from land owners. Non-resident land owners are being asked by the association as well as resident land owners. Non-resident mortgage holders are also being solicited together with banks, wholesale houses, manufacturers, etc., doing business within the state.

Response Is Good

The response to the campaign for funds has been so great that the officers of the association have already started advertising work, feeling that the completion of the fund is assured. The first step taken by the association has been the ordering of one million letter inserts carrying advertisements of the state on one side and a county advertisement on the other, 20,000 copies being assigned to each county in the state. These inserts will be distributed by the railroads of the state in their mail during the month of November, which has been proclaimed by them as "North Dakota Month."

LIGHT SNOW AND COLD SNAP PUT ZIP INTO WESTERN N. D. WEATHER

Winter descended on Bismarck last night, but any gloom that may have resulted is being dispelled today under the influence of bright sunshine. Snappy weather made it a little bit cold for the Armistice Day exercises today, but the zip in the air was found pleasant by most citizens.

A light snow covered this section of the state, and many other places in the Northwest. Below zero temperatures appeared in the weather report, Edmonton, Canada, reporting

RICH CHICAGO CRIMINAL IS SHOT TO DEATH

Killed by Three Unknown Men Calling on Him in His Flower Store

Chicago, Nov. 11. Don O'Bannon, one of Chicago's most colorful police characters whom prohibition and its attendant beer running and hijacking is said to have brought into town, was shot and killed in his flower store here yesterday.

It was this store that O'Bannon, gang leader and gang fighter, pistol wielder, and veteran of several shootings, had retired for a quiet and to a life replete with excitement and danger.

Slain by Unidentified Trio

The shooting, according to employees at the floral shop, terminated a conversation between O'Bannon and three unidentified men who had called to see him.

There were no witnesses, as far as police could learn, the floral shop employees having gone back into a rear room as O'Bannon walked to the front of the shop to meet his visitors.

Following the fusillade of shots, the employees found O'Bannon lying on the floor in front of the show case, two bullet wounds in his body. He died without making a statement.

Always Had Alibis

O'Bannon flared brightly into the sky of Chicago's night and criminal life with the advent of prohibition. Since then, almost every crime of major proportions in the city has found its spotlight focused upon him, but he invariably had airtight alibis.

Then he bought a half interest in the floral shop and his friends said: "O'Bannon's made his pile. He's done with beer running."

And O'Bannon, when police would round him out as they scoured the underworld after each new crime, would tell them, "I'm just a business man. All I want to do is to tend to my business as a florist. I'm a lover of flowers, not a criminal. Why don't the police let me alone?"

Police believe he was the victim of gangsters or beer runners with whom, at least at one time, he was associated.

Vengeance or Rivalry

A short time after the killing, police had developed two outstanding theories as to the motive which prompted the crime. They were: A beer runners' war. They believed O'Bannon may have been slain by members of a rival gang, increased possibly at a successful hijacking; or, Vengeance. The possibility that some rival gang had sought to settle old scores in this manner was pointed out. First in consideration was "hard-boiled" John Duffy's gang from Philadelphia. A threat that this gang was out to "get" O'Bannon buzzed through the underworld following the killing of (Continued on page 2)

LONG BALLOT IS TOO MUCH

Montana Election Clerks Give Up After Time

Helena, Mont., Nov. 11.—With nearly 100 candidates, representing seven tickets, Montana's ballot, almost as large as a table cloth, proved too much for many of the election clerks of this state.

After counting the leading parties, the clerks gave up as a bad job and made no report on write-ins, smaller parties and five special measures submitted to the people. Some of the election officials worked 72 hours without completing their task. The unwieldy ballot, added to the unusual number of aspirants for office, made the job too big.

There was much interest in the measures, whose fate may not be known until the official count begins late this month.

During Tuesday's election voters complaining to election officials that they found it inconvenient to handle the prodigious ballot in the small and narrow election booths. To handle the ballot within the booths and to fold it properly for the final clerk required great ingenuity, in the opinion of several voters.

One party, under the Independent column, had but one candidate for United States senator, who polled a negligible vote, a survey of part of the returns indicated, while two other parties polled so few votes it cost the state a goodly sum for each vote, when the printing bill is considered, according to election officials.

MRS. HARDING IS NEAR DEATH

Marion, O., Nov. 11.—Mrs. Florence Kling Harding was reported as hovering between life and death today, by her physician, Dr. Carl W. Sawyer, who reported her condition unchanged yesterday. Little hope was held for her recovery.

"NATION MUST BE STRONG"—DRAIN

BY JAMES A. DRAIN
National Commander, The American Legion

Six years ago today the peoples of the world's nations rejoiced as only those who have suffered long may rejoice. Prayers, prayers full of strength and sincerity—burst from millions of throats that such a blight on the world as had just ended should never again blacken the pages of history.

Six years ago tomorrow those same people started to forget. The lessons that four years of terror, famine and heartlessness had taught began to disappear.

The price in lives to our country, almost 300,000 killed, wounded and diseased, was lost sight of in the rush to regain pre-war levels. There was excess cost in money to billions on billions. The country had paid thus dearly for its impatience with anything resembling preparedness. That fact is unescapable.

We men of the American Legion, who know how terrible war is, count it among our blessings that ours is a peaceful nation.

We may be depended upon to help keep it at peace by every means that fits with honor.

But we know, as none can better

Armistice Day Is Celebrated in Bismarck, With Citizens Participating

HEAR PATRIOTIC TALK

Duty of Citizens to Government Every Day Is Emphasized by Mr. Shaft

Memories of Bismarck citizens harked back six years today to November 11, 1918, when the Armistice which stilled the guns in the World War became effective at 11 a. m. Bismarck celebrated, as on that day, but in different manner and different spirit. The joyful outburst of November 11, 1918, was replaced by a more solemn ceremony, in commemoration of the ending of the World War. Then, too, whereas on November 11, six years ago, the participants all were in civil uniform, ex-service men today donned their uniforms to join in the exercises.

The annual parade moved off this afternoon under the command of Capt. H. T. Murphy, with a long line of ex-service men, members of Company "A", the Quartermaster Detachment, National Guard; veterans of other wars, members of the War Mothers, Legion Auxiliary and other organizations, and school children in line, with three bands playing martial music for the day.

Tonight the annual ex-service men's dinner will be held.

Following the parade the patriotic program of music and a patriotic address by Harold D. Shaft was given in the city Auditorium. The program included a minute of silence, songs by the audience, solo by Lillian Rieger and overture by the Juvenile Band.

Mr. Shaft Speaks

Mr. Shaft, in his address, emphasized the reasons for the observance of Armistice Day, and the duties of citizens.

"We are met today to commemorate the signing of the Armistice, in a spirit of Thanksgiving for the successful conclusion of the war, in a spirit of praise and glory for those who made that victory possible," he said.

"The American Legion has taken the attitude that they cannot lean back and rest on their laurels, and their Legion buttons and on an occasion such as this it is well for us all to remember that the war with Germany was with only one enemy, a military enemy, and that with our other enemies, the forces of internal disruption, the forces of anarchy, the forces of lawlessness, liberty throughout the world there can be no armistice—but the battle must go on through generation after generation if the principles established by the Revolutionary War, reaffirmed by the Civil War and upheld for all the world in the victory represented by Armistice Day are to be preserved."

NEW HIGHWAY IS DEDICATED TO WAR HEROES

Exercises Held in Mandan Today. Renaming Mandan-Bismarck Road

Dedication of the new Bismarck-Mandan concrete highway, on the Mandan side of the river, as "Memorial Highway" featured the Armistice Day observance in Mandan today. With the Wisconsin River bridge, named the North Dakota Liberty Memorial Bridge, and bronze plates placed on huge boulders at either end of the bridge as memorials, it is hoped by patriotic organizations to keep the entire highway between Bismarck and Mandan as a practical memorial to soldiers of the World War. Trees were planted on the Mandan side when the new road was laid out, and it is expected that in the future other steps will be taken to make the stretch of highway a notable one in North Dakota.

Because of the sharp drop in temperature, plans for outdoor dedicatory exercises were abandoned, and instead they are being held in the Palace Theatre at Mandan. Immediately after the close of the exercises, the parade will be formed, the leading car starting at the Roosevelt statue on Main street. The automobile drive will be made over the Memorial Highway, North Dakota Liberty Memorial Bridge to First street, Bismarck, circle the block and return to Mandan.

An attractive marker carrying the memorial name of the highway has been placed on the Mandan side by the highway commission.

It is expected that that part of the highway in Burleigh county also will be dedicated as Memorial Highway, but Mrs. A. W. Schaefer, head of the American Legion Auxiliary here, said that it would be necessary to wait until a meeting of the board of county commissioners, held before the matter may be taken up officially.

The Mandan Program

The dedicatory services at the Palace theatre conducted under the auspices of the American Legion Auxiliary, began at 2 o'clock and the program will be as follows:

Invocation—Rev. F. Clement Dumpf.

Song—America, accompanied by band.

Presentative—"Memorial Highway," L. H. Connolly.

CITIES REPORT OBSERVANCE IN VARYING WAYS

President Coolidge Visits Tomb of Unknown Soldier in Arlington Cemetery

OTHER CELEBRATIONS

New York Ushers in Observance with Two Minutes of Silence Decried

Washington, Nov. 11.—The capital's participation today in the nation-wide celebration of Armistice Day centered, as heretofore, about the tomb of the unknown soldier in Arlington National Cemetery.

In addition, numerous patriotic exercises similar to those in other cities were arranged by various organizations and foreign groups and the day also marked the opening of the annual roll-call of the American Red Cross.

The Unknown Soldier's tomb was the shrine for many pilgrimages, led by the annual visit of the President, in accordance with a custom established by President Harding. Only a few high in official life, including Secretary Wilbur and Dwight Davis, acting Secretary of War, as representative of the two military branches of government, were invited to accompany Mr. Coolidge on his simple mission of homage.

Services in memory of Woodrow Wilson in the national cathedral where he is buried were arranged by the committee which prior to his death took charge of the Armistice Day pilgrimages to his home in 8 street. None of the government departments closed for the day, President Coolidge having found that he lacked authority to declare a holiday in the absence of action by Congress.

MINUTE OF SILENCE

Chicago, Nov. 11.—A minute of silence with all traffic halted and business suspended, special observances by veterans' bodies and programs by various organizations marked Chicago's celebration of Armistice Day. Banks, the stock exchange, the board of trade and all schools were closed.

"TAPS" BROADCAST

New York, Nov. 11.—New York's Armistice Day program included two minutes of silence at 11 o'clock taped in by radio broadcasting of taps and a bugle call, with every activity in the city ceasing for the period of contemplation. Patriotic, civil, religious and business organizations were prepared to join with city officials in the celebration commemorating the day on which hostilities ceased six years ago. Few business offices closed for the day.

Jamestown, N. D., Nov. 11.—James town Lodge No. 1, F. & A. M. will hold their annual banquet, entertainment and dance Wednesday, November 19th at the Masonic temple at 6-30.

Elk will be the meat for the banquet. Messrs. G. B. Glade and R. E. Hanna having driven by auto yesterday to Sully Hill National Park, near Fort Totten, where they procured an exceptionally fine elk. The herd in the park has increased to the extent that the government does not wish to take care of so many head and they are thinning the number down by selling a few to different parties and organizations throughout the state.

The elk animals are in fine condition and this particular one will dress about 400 pounds of choice meat, which the Masons will serve to their members and ladies on the 19th. It is expected that over five hundred will be in attendance.

The country had paid thus dearly for its impatience with anything resembling preparedness. That fact is unescapable.

We men of the American Legion, who know how terrible war is, count it among our blessings that ours is a peaceful nation.

We may be depended upon to help keep it at peace by every means that fits with honor.

But we know, as none can better

NATION OBSERVES ARMISTICE DAY FINEST STATE CORN SHOW OPENS WEDNESDAY

VARIETY WILL BETTER SHOW OF LAST YEAR

Careful Selection of Exhibits
Is Shown in the Entries
Now Received

COUNTIES REPRESENTED

Practically All Sections of The State to Have Exhibits in Corn Show

The finest corn show ever held in North Dakota will open tomorrow. This was the verdict of officials of the North Dakota State Corn Show Tuesday afternoon, as the exhibits were being arranged in the show room, in the Annex Hotel building on East Broadway.

A fine variety of exhibits than last year, when the first state show was held, will be shown here, during the four days of the show, November 12, 13, 14 and 15. The exhibits come from all parts of the state with many counties making a special effort to win the corn championship of the state by taking the L. B. Hanna sweepstakes cup.

The show display room will be open tomorrow morning and will remain open morning, afternoon and evening for the four days. Judging will be by Dr. H. L. Walster and Prof. P. J. Olson of the North Dakota Agricultural College.

Unpacking Exhibits
Men were busy today unpacking exhibits and arranging them, under the direction of O. E. Anderson, floor superintendent. The exhibits are of better quality this year, A. P. Bradley, show secretary said, because exhibitors had the opportunity to pick their corn in the field and because of the instructions sent out as to how to pick show corn. The fact that many local corn shows have been held throughout the state, to pick the best exhibits to be sent to Bismarck, also helped to insure a finer quality of exhibits. A group of 10 exhibits from one town may represent the pick of 150 exhibits in a local corn show. The holding of local corn shows has been encouraged by officials of the state show, the object being to get a representative display of the finest quality, rather than endless numbers of exhibits.

Several of the exhibits here have been entered by individuals in the International Hay and Grain Show, to be held in Chicago, November 29—December 6. The matter of sending all the prize winners from the state show to Chicago is under consideration.

The L. B. Hanna sweepstakes cup was won last year by Sargent county, this going to the county whose exhibitors scored the largest number of points in the show. As the cup must be won in succession, it was retained permanently, several counties are out to take the cup away from Sargent county.

The Program
There will be no program Wednesday, although the exhibits will be open to public inspection, but there will be programs the other three days. The program, to be at the city Auditorium, follows:

GREATER N. D. FUND DRIVE IS MOVING ALONG

Several Counties in State Have Completed Their Quotas, Is Announcement

HOLD RESPONSE GOOD

Valley City, N. D., Nov. 11.—Officials of the Greater North Dakota Association announce that several counties of the state have reported the completion of their county quotas in the state-wide drive for funds by the association with which to "tell the truth about North Dakota" in an extensive advertising and publicity campaign, the association confidently expecting by this method to increase immigration to the state and to enhance the good name of the state abroad among business men and financial interests.

Outsiders Are Helping
Several contributions to the fund have been received at association headquarters from persons outside the state who have seen the value of such a campaign and expressed a willingness to help in the good work. The most notable person contributing to the fund so far has been Lt. Com. John Philip Sousa, who recently gave a concert at Valley City and, hearing of the state-wide movement proposed, expressed a desire to help in the work. He contributed twenty-five dollars to the fund.

One Dollar Each
The fund is being raised on the basis of one dollar per family in the towns and cities and one dollar per quarter section from land owners. Non-resident land owners are being asked by the association as well as resident land owners. Non-resident mortgage holders are also being solicited together with banks, wholesale houses, manufacturers, etc., doing business within the state.

Response is Good
The response to the campaign for funds has been so great that the officials of the association have already started advertising work, feeling that the completion of the fund is assured. The first step taken by the association has been the ordering of one million letter inserts carrying advertisements of the state on one side and a county advertisement on the other, 20,000 copies being assigned to each county in the state. These inserts will be distributed by the railroads of the state in their mail during the month of November, which has been proclaimed by them as "North Dakota Month."

JAP NOBLE IN MOVIES
Tokyo, Nov. 11.—Yasunaga Higashiboji has taken the fatal step. This young nobleman, third son of Viscount Higashiboji, has turned his back on a life of luxury and ease to enter the movies. He has gone to Kyoto, Japan's "Hollywood," to become the Rodolph Valentino of his country. He will be cast in romantic roles.

LIGHT SNOW AND COLD SNAP PUT ZIP INTO WESTERN N. D. WEATHER

Winter descended on Bismarck last night, but any gloom that may have resulted is being dispelled to-day under the influence of bright sunshine. Snappy weather made it a little bit cold for the Armistice Day exercises today, but the zip in the air was found pleasant by most citizens.

A light snow covered this section of the state, and many other places in the Northwest. Below zero temperatures appeared in the weather report, Edmonton, Canada, reporting

The cider, it was stated, was bought from a farmer in a barrel and it is thought the barrel was used last spring in connection with spraying. Several other veterans, residents of the home, are ill from the cider.

Englert in the Cass county district court in the trial of several cases in which affidavits of prejudice were filed. The cases are: State vs. Jack Ripley, and Ray McDermott, robbery; state vs. Percy E. Wheeler, liquor violation; state vs. J. Schumacher, and state vs. Vilahos, manslaughter.

RICH CHICAGO CRIMINAL IS SHOT TO DEATH

Killed by Three Unknown
Men Calling on Him in His Flower Store

HAD MADE MILLIONS

Chicago, Nov. 11.—Dion O'Bannon, one of Chicago's most colorful police characters whom prohibition and its attendant beer running and hijacking is said to have brought millions, was shot and killed in his flower store here yesterday.

It was to this store that O'Bannon, gang leader and gang fighter, pistol wielder, and veteran of several shootings, had retired for a quiet end to a life replete with excitement and danger.

Slain by Unidentified Trio
The shooting, according to employees at the floral shop, terminated a conversation between O'Bannon and three unidentified men who had called to see him.

There were no witnesses, as far as police could learn, the floral shop employees reporting that the three men had entered the store and walked to the front of the shop to meet their visitors. Following the fusillade of shots, the employees found O'Bannon lying on the floor in front of the show-case, two bullet wounds in his body. He died without making a statement.

Always Had Alibis
O'Bannon flared brightly into the sky of Chicago's night and criminal life with the advent of prohibition. Since then, almost every crime of major proportion in the city has found its spot light focussed upon him, but he invariably had alibis.

Then he bought a half interest in the floral shop and his friends said: "O'Bannon's made his pile. He's done with beer running."

Police believe he was the victim of gangsters or beer runners with whom, at least at one time, he was associated.

LONG BALLOT IS TOO MUCH

Montana Election Clerks Give Up After Time

Helena, Mont., Nov. 11.—With nearly 100 candidates, representing seven tickets, Montana's ballot, almost as large as a table cloth, proved too much for many of the election clerks of this state.

After counting the leading parties, the clerks gave up as a bad job and made no report on write-ins, smaller parties and five special measures submitted to the people. Some of the election officials worked 72 hours without completing their task. The unwieldy ballot, added to the unusual number of aspirants for office, made the job too big.

There was much interest in the measures whose fate may not be known until the official count begins late this month.

During Tuesday's election voters complaining to election officials that they found it inconvenient to handle the prodigious ballot in the small and narrow election booths. To handle the ballot within the booths and to fold it properly for the final clerk required great ingenuity, in the opinion of several voters.

One party, under the Independent column, had but one candidate for United States senator, who polled a negligible vote, a survey of part of the returns indicated, while two other parties polled so few votes it cost the state a goodly sum for each vote, when the printing bill is considered, according to election officials.

CITIZENS HERE JOIN IN DAY'S CELEBRATION

Armistice Day Is Celebrated in Bismarck, With Citizens Participating

HEAR PATRIOTIC TALK

Duty of Citizens to Government Every Day Is Emphasized by Mr. Shaft

Memories of Bismarck citizens harked back six years today to November 11, 1918, when the Armistice which stilled the guns in the World War became effective at 11 a. m. Bismarck celebrated, as on that day, but in different manner and of different spirit. The joyful outburst of November 11, 1918, was replaced by a more solemn ceremony, in commemoration of the ending of the World War. Then, too, whereas on November 11, six years ago, the participants all were in civil uniform, ex-service men today donned their uniforms to join in the exercises.

The annual parade moved off this afternoon under the command of Capt. H. T. Murphy, with a long line of ex-service men, members of Company "A", the Quartermaster Detachment, National Guard; veterans of other wars, members of the War Mothers, Legion Auxiliary and other organizations, and school children in line, with three bands playing martial music for the day.

Tonight the annual ex-service men's dinner will be held.

Following the parade the patriotic program of music and a patriotic address by Harold D. Shaft, was given in the city Auditorium. The program included a minute of silence, songs by the audience, solo by Lilian Rigler and overture by the Juvenile Band.

Mr. Shaft Speaks
Mr. Shaft, in his address, emphasized the reasons for the observance of Armistice Day, and the duties of citizens.

"We are met today to commemorate the signing of the Armistice, in a spirit of Thanksgiving for the successful conclusion of the war, in a spirit of praise and glory for those who made that victory possible," he said.

"The American Legion has taken the attitude that they cannot let back and rest on their laurels, and their Legion buttons and on an occasion such as this it is well for us all to remember that the war with Germany was with only one enemy, a military enemy, and that with our other enemies, the forces of internal dissension, the forces of wrong, the forces arrayed against liberty throughout the world there can be no armistice—but the battle must go on through generation after generation if the principles established by the Revolutionary War, reaffirmed by the Civil War and upheld by all the world in the victory represented by Armistice Day are to be preserved."

"NATION MUST BE STRONG"—DRAIN

BY JAMES A. DRAIN
National Commander, The American Legion

Six years ago today the peoples of the world's nations rejoiced as only those who have suffered long may rejoice. Prayers—prayers full of strength and sincerity—burst from millions of throats that such a blight on the world as had just ended should never again darken the pages of history.

Armistice Day Full Holiday Over France

Paris, Nov. 11.—Armistice Day is this year for the first time a holiday in France. Although parliament voted it a legal holiday long ago application of the law has been suspended mainly because of economic reasons, with businesses resumpt only by minutes of silence.

Today everything is closed except the places of amusement. The feature of the celebration in Paris will be at the tomb of the unknown soldier in the Arc d' Triomphe, with President Doumergue, Premier Herriot and his cabinet in attendance. Every city and village in France will commemorate the day.

Fargo Planned Biggest Celebration Since End of War,
on Armistice Day

Dedication of the new Bismarck-Mandan concrete highway, on the Mandan side of the river, as "Memorial Highway" features the Armistice Day observance in Mandan today. With the Missouri River bridge named the North Dakota Liberty Memorial Bridge, and bronze plates placed on huge boulders at either end of the bridge as memorials, it is hoped by patriotic organizations to keep the entire highway between Bismarck and Mandan as a practical memorial to soldiers of the World War. Trees were planted on the Mandan side when the new road was laid out, and it is expected that in the future other steps will be taken to make the stretch of highway a notable one in North Dakota.

Because of the sharp drop in temperature, plans for outdoor dedicatory exercises were abandoned, and instead they are being held in the Palace Theatre at Mandan. Immediately after the close of the exercises, the parade will be formed, the leading car starting at the Roosevelt statue on Main street. The automobile drive will be made over the Memorial Highway, North Dakota Liberty Memorial Bridge to First street, Bismarck, circle the block and return to Mandan.

An attractive marker, carrying the memorial name of the highway has been placed on the Mandan side by the highway commission. It is expected that that part of the highway in Burleigh county also will be dedicated as Memorial Highway, but Mrs. A. W. Schaefer, head of the American Legion Auxiliary here, said that it would be necessary to wait until a meeting of the board of county commissioners is held, before the matter may be taken up officially.

The Mandan Program
The dedication services at the Palace theatre conducted under the auspices of the American Legion Auxiliary, began at 2 o'clock and the program will be as follows:

Invocation—Rev. Fr. Clement Dimpf.
Song—America, accompanied by band.

Presentation—"Memorial Highway," L. H. Connolly.

CITIES REPORT OBSERVANCE IN VARYING WAYS

President Coolidge Visits
Tomb of Unknown Soldier

OTHER CELEBRATIONS

New York Ushers in Observance with Two Minutes of Silence Decried

Washington, Nov. 11.—The capital's participation today in the nation-wide celebration of Armistice Day centered, as heretofore, about the tomb of the unknown soldier in Arlington National Cemetery.

In addition numerous patriotic exercises similar to those in other organizations and foreign groups and the day also marked the opening of the annual roll-call of the American Red Cross.

The Unknown Soldier's tomb was the shrine for many pilgrimages, led by the annual visit of the President, in accordance with a custom established by President Harding. Only a few high in official life, including Secretary Wilbur and Dwight Davis, acting Secretary of War, as representative of the two military branches of government, were invited to accompany Mr. Coolidge on his simple mission of homage.

Services in memory of Woodrow Wilson in the national cathedral where he is buried were arranged by the committee which prior to his death took charge of the Armistice Day pilgrimages to his home in S street. None of the government departments closed for the day, President Coolidge having found that he lacked authority to declare a holiday in the absence of action by Congress.

MINUTE OF SILENCE

Chicago, Nov. 11.—A minute of silence with all traffic halted and business suspended, special observances by veterans' bodies and programs by various organizations marked Chicago's celebration of Armistice Day. Banks, the stock exchange, the board of trade and all schools were closed.

"TAPS" BROADCAST

New York, Nov. 11.—New York's Armistice Day program included two minutes of silence at 11 o'clock ushered in by radio broadcasting of taps and a bugle call, with every activity in the city ceasing for the period of contemplation. Patriotic, civil, religious and business organizations were prepared to join with city officials in the celebration commemorating the day on which hostilities ceased six years ago. Few business offices closed for the day.

Elk will be the meat for the banquet, Messrs G. B. Glade and R. E. Hanna having driven by auto yesterday to Sully Hill National Park, near Fort Totten, where they procured an exceptionally fine elk. The head in the park has increased to the extent that the government does not wish to take care of so many head and they are thinning the number down by selling a few to different parties and organizations throughout the state.

These animals are in fine condition and this particular one will dress about 400 pounds of choice meat, which the Masons will serve to their members and ladies on the 19th. It is expected that over five hundred will be in attendance.

Washington, Nov. 10.—This year's corn crop was placed at 2,477,548,000 bushels today by the Department of Agriculture in its preliminary estimate of production. A month ago 2,450,000,000 were forecast. Last year's crop was 2,410,157,000 bushels.

Preliminary estimate of production for other crops included: Buckwheat 15,220,000 bushels; white potatoes 451,119,000 bushels; sweet potatoes 75,620,000 bushels; sweet corn 1,213,975,000 pounds; flax 30,652,000 bushels.

RED CROSS TO HAVE FIRST AID CLASSES HERE

The Bismarck chapter of the American Red Cross is to start a course in First Aid, Anybody over 16 years of age who is interested in taking the course is asked to communicate with Mrs. H. A. Brander, director of First Aid Work. The classes will be organized as soon as lists are complete.

First Aid instruction has been introduced within the last few years into the curriculum of many schools, and there is a constantly increasing demand for it. The demand is the result of the hazard of sport in the school gymnasium, the playground, and on field and river, as well as of the increasing use of automobiles, and power machines in the country, and the growing complexity of industrial life.

Because of all these things, accidents are of frequent occurrence, and, as many of them take place under circumstances which make it impossible to get a physician at once, the value of training in First Aid cannot be overestimated. Many accidents are so slight that First Aid treatment is all that is needed, but others are so serious that the issue between safety and disaster rests on the care given during the first fifteen minutes. And, in any accident, the ability of the layman to keep the injured one comfortable and confident until medical help arrives is an invaluable asset.

The First Aid course which has been prepared for schools, consists of fifteen hours, instruction. It is given only to the name indicates it is the care given to an injured person before the arrival of a physician. The instructions which include much practice work may be given by the school nurse, school physician, physical director, or teacher, who has completed a course in First Aid.

New Method Heals Psoriasis

Ten Years Bad Case Completely Healed in a Short Time Writes Florida Woman.

Faced with the loss of her teeth after 10 years' suffering, Mrs. J. J. Travis, an esteemed resident of Jacksonville, declares she finally saved her teeth by a single home treatment: "worth its weight in gold," using her own words: "After having psoriasis for 10 years my mouth is now healed. Three days after starting its use, the soreness left my gums; my teeth began to tighten. Now my teeth are clean, my breath sweet, and my mouth completely healed."

The experience of Mrs. Travis is duplicated in hundreds of other cases. If you have psoriasis—or threatened with psoriasis—your teeth are in danger. Quick and effective treatment is necessary. You can test, without money risk, the treatment used by Mrs. Travis. Simply write the Merchants Co., 1131 Gateway Station, Kansas City, Mo. Under their guarantee of refund send two dollars. Or, pay postman the $2 with few cents postage. Use the treatment 7 days. Then if you are not wholly satisfied, write to that effect and your $2 will be returned at once.

IT WAS "LOVE AT FIRST SIGHT" FOR HENRY FORD

Home Loving and Unpretentious Is Mrs. Ford. Who as "The Believer" Spurred Husband to Success After Romantic Meeting at "Barn Dance"

MRS. HENRY FORD AND HOME THEY LIVED IN BEFORE FORD BECAME RICH

By NEA Service

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 10.—It was "love at first sight" for Henry Ford.

There was something about little Clara Bryant, who lived on a farm near Dearborn, Mich., that attracted Henry.

And that attraction grew rapidly, and three years later the Bryant girl became Mrs. Henry Ford, destined to be the wife of one of the world's richest men, and herself rapidly the world's richest woman.

Thirty-nine years ago at a barn dance near Dearborn, Mich., Ford, then a tall, thin, gangling youth, eyed a small, pretty girl with chestnut hair, eyes and long chestnut-colored hair.

He made an introduction, they sat out two "square dances," to talk about no nobly watching making, one was sympathetic. He showed her a queer watch he had made. It had two sets of hands, recording not only time and minutes, but also the time of day.

Ford rolled the car out into the street, and started it. It ran only a short distance. But it ran! One of the tools of the mountain of success had been topped.

But there were other hills to climb. When Ford drove his odd-looking contrivance, horses balked, drivers swore. Jeering crowds gathered.

The populace called him "crazy" and "half cracked." But through it all Mrs. Ford stood by him, urging him on with her confidence. She was about the only person who had the "nerve" to endure the hoots of the crowd and ride through Detroit streets with him in his "horseless carriage."

Home-Loving Woman

Home-loving and thoroughly unpretentious is this tremendously rich woman.

Despite her millions, she dresses like a middle class woman. She wears nothing but jewels. In dresses she shades she likes are brown and blue. Mink and sable are her favorite furs.

Mrs. Ford believes that good cooking is the biggest part of a woman's job. That's her forte. Indeed she refused to have any servants around her house until a few years ago. She's proudest of her apple pie. She calls it "bird-nest pie."

"It's quite simple to make," she says.

And Henry likes it.

DARROW ANSWERS THE QUESTION—ARE CRIMINALS WORTH SAVING?

By ROY J. GIBBONS

NEA Service Writer

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Society has no right to condemn a man to death for the preservation of the race. If for nothing else, the state should not deliberately destroy life.

So declares Clarence S. Darrow, internationally famous criminal attorney, whose master pleading has added more than 100 murderers to the list of the hangmen's hands.

In an exclusive interview with NEA Service and The Tribune, Darrow for the first time reveals the workings of his mind in explaining why he has come to the rescue of so many criminals marked for the gallows.

Answering the question: "Are criminals worth saving?" Darrow says:

"It is first necessary to find out what is meant by the word 'criminal.' Whether it means some person who has some anti-social instinct, or one who has been convicted of a crime."

"Everyone has both social and anti-social instincts, and it is only a question of degree as to the extremes each way."

"As for conviction of a crime, there are all sorts of crimes. Convictions run from a dollar fine to death. Many are convicted who are not guilty, so it would be impossible to answer the question from this standpoint."

"But, if the question should be: 'Are there not criminals who are not worth saving?'—then the question should be asked: 'Worth saving to whom?'"

"There are an infinite number of people who have high standing who are not worth saving, so far as the community is concerned. In fact, many who are called good people, are very injurious to the community."

"Perhaps there are very few people whose death would make any difference to the community, and in that sense, they would not be worth saving. But, the only admissible question is: 'Are they worth saving to themselves?'"

"I live because we want to live, regardless of whether we are doing good to others or not, and it would be very hard to pass and execute a law that only those who do good to others should live."

"Many men, probably most men, prefer to live inside a prison than to die. And their wishes should be consulted and that of their friends."

"It would be dangerous to consult only the wishes of the community. In that case no one's life would be safe. 'Quite apart' from all this, nature in the development of the individual, has created an imagination which gives him a certain amount of sympathy and pity. To destroy this by brutality of any sort would mean the destruction of the best part of man. And harsh and cruel punishment always have a tendency to destroy the highest emotion of man."

"Many on trial for a capital offense say they prefer to die rather than live out their lives in prison. Perhaps they feel so at the time. But if life prisoners were given free access to guns, razors and poison and had good health, most of them would die of old age."

"Every organism, whether it is human, animal, religious, social or political has the will to live. With living goes the wish to live. Otherwise life would not persist."

"Passing to comment on the trust estate which the father of slain Robert Franks has created to defeat any attempt to liberate Nathan F. Leopold Jr. and Richard A. Loeb, his son's slayers, Darrow says:

"I would say that Mr. Franks and his fund will both be in oblivion before any effort will be made to release Leopold or Loeb. If the time ever comes that the public considers that they are safe to be at large and they have been in prison long enough, the public, through their officials, will, no doubt act, no matter who opposes it."

"Very seldom a case comes before the pardon board that somebody does not oppose the release, and yet the law makes it obligatory that after a certain length of time, prisoners in general must be paroled. If fit for parole, and about 90 percent make good after release. Of course, in murder cases there are very few who are released before serving 20 years."

RULING MADE IN DRY CASE FAVORS HILL

Court Holds Congress Intended Treat Home-Made Wine
Maker Differently

TO REVISE PRACTICES?

Baltimore, Nov. 11.—In the trial of Rep. John Philip Hill, in the United States Court here today, for alleged violations of the Volstead act, Judge Morris Soper ruled that the "one-half of one percent" clause in the Volstead law does not apply to beverages made in the home for home consumption.

Judge Soper said: "Congress seems to have used the word 'non-intoxicating' differently in one section than it did in another. To my mind Congress plainly intended that persons manufacturing cider and wine exclusively in their homes should be in a class by themselves or otherwise there is no need for this section (Section 21). The only reasonable explanation for Congress signaling out home-made wine makers is that Congress did not intend to punish men for such manufacture unless the beverage is intoxicating in fact."

"This opinion seems to be borne out by an opinion expressed in the United States Senate in 1919 when the Volstead act was being debated by the chairman of the committee in charge of the bill. He expressed the opinion when this section was added to the bill by this amendment that cider and fruit juices made exclusively for use in the home must be intoxicating in fact."

The ruling was the result of a lengthy argument yesterday by counsel for Hill and U. S. District Attorney Woodcock.

The government chemists testified that Col. Hill's home-made wine had an alcoholic content as high as 11 percent.

Hill's defense was based on the alleged ambiguity of section 29 of the Volstead act which permits the manufacture of home-made fruit juices and cider providing they are "non-intoxicating" but forbids their sale to anyone except those who have a permit to make vinegar from the cider.

PURSUING MANY THEORIES
Chicago, Nov. 11.—(By the A. P.)—Gang rivalry, beer runners' feud, gambling troubles and a fight of lieutenants of rival gangs over a woman, were theories followed by the police today in their search for three men who yesterday shot and killed Dion O'Banion, notorious gunman and gangster in his florist's shop.

While they sought Mike Carroso, labor leader, and Margaret Collins, pretty blonde, involved in a fight eight months ago with Louis Altiere and John Bates, alleged lieutenant of O'Banion, the police took precautions to prevent more killings in reprisal.

was disclosed that more than the three men who fled after firing seven bullets into O'Banion may have been involved in the slaying. A theory that possibly 28 men, using nine automobiles, effectively blocked traffic in the vicinity of the florist shop while the slayers escaped in their automobile, was evolved after witnesses were questioned.

Morgan A. Collins, police chief, declared the death of O'Banion rid Chicago of "its arch-criminal."

"I don't doubt that O'Banion was responsible for at least 25 murders in this city," Chief Collins said. "The city in general and the police department in particular can give a deep sigh of relief."

Often under suspicion in connection with killings O'Banion never was tried for murder. Occasionally when he was named in connection with a killing he would appear voluntarily.

"Why, I am a florist," he would say. "If I've ever been in the booze racket, I'm out now."

He never was known to take a drink of beer or whisky, investigators found.

REINFORCED GLANDS TO KEEP YOUNG SAYS SCIENTIST

Thousands of Men and Women Now Take Glandogen to Help Regain Normal Health, Vigor and Strength

Dr. Arnold Lorand, of Austria, says in his book, "Old Age Deferred," in speaking of the glands: "We must insist upon the reinforcement of their functions if changed by age or disease by means of extracts obtained from the similar organs of healthy young animals."

GLANDULAR ACTIVITY NECESSARY IF IMPORTANT ORGANS OF BODY PERFORM THEIR FUNCTIONS

At a recent medical convention in Chicago, Dr. Roy Upham, President of the American Institute of Homeopathy, stated that because of the intimate connection of the nervous system with the glands, many sufferers from nervous disorders were receiving remarkable benefits from glandular treatment. He further stated that this glandular treatment could be taken by mouth like any other medicine, and that an operation is not necessary.

Dr. Serge Voronoff, an international authority on Organotherapy, has said: "The brain, the nerves, the muscles, as well as the liver, the kidneys and all other organs would be incapable of playing any useful part without the aid of the glands. The functioning of our organs is no more than the activity of our glands, and when the bodily functioning is disturbed, the cause in most cases should be sought, not in the condition of the organ itself, but in the condition of the gland which controls it."

Dr. Samuel J. Staub, according to a recent dispatch, said that people suffering from that "below par" feeling, accompanied by loss of appetite, sleeplessness, loss of weight and so forth, can be set right by having the balance of their glandular secretions restored.

GLANDULAR TREATMENT (GLANDOGEN) CAN NOW BE TAKEN IN CONVENIENT TABLET FORM.

Hundreds of men and women are now turning to glandular treatment to help regain lost strength, vigor, vitality and health. Since Science has prepared a gland treatment in simple compact tablet form—Glandogen—it is a simple matter to take glandular treatment. Glandogen is scientifically prepared in two different forms, one for men and one for women, from the vital glands of healthy young animals, combined with other efficacious ingredients. Glandogen can be obtained at Lenhart Drug Co. They will supply you. Mail orders accepted.—Adv.

SUGAR BEET CULTURE PAYS IN NO. DAKOTA

Is at Present Time Best Paying Crop on Yellowstone Project, Report Says

400 MEXICANS EMPLOYED

(From report of State Engineer W. G. Black)

The best paying crop on the lower Yellowstone and Williston Irrigation Projects at the present time is sugar beet. A market is available at fair price for all the sugar beet that can be raised on these projects. However, a change from small grains where one man can care for a large acreage to sugar beets where one man can care for, at most, ten to twelve acres, means a very great increase in population or a corresponding increase in hired labor. At present this labor demand is largely met by the importation of Mexican labor from Texas and old Mexico. The Mexicans are good laborers and are paid $25.00 per acre for the season for doing the hand work only. This work consists of blocking and thinning and hoeing the beets, also topping and loading after the beets are lifted. The hand work is done for a period of seven months but only fifty-five days of actual labor is required during this period. The laborer must find other work during the season to supplement the contract work on sugar beets. In all, the return to the laborer is about $2.00 per day for the actual time worked.

Over 100 Mexicans were used in the Lower Yellowstone district last season. As it is the intention of the farmers to double their last year's crop, which amounted to 3,110 acres, it will be readily seen that a supply of labor is the most serious problem to be met in any extension of irrigated crops in western North Dakota and eastern Montana. As the Mexican is entirely unskilled in American farming methods and is in the majority of cases illiterate, generally speaking, is not the best human material available for citizenship, it would appear that any expenditure by the state to secure permanent settlers for farming a small acreage of sugar beets, together with milking cows and practicing diversified farming generally, would be well repaid in the increased tax returns.

Sugar beet tops make excellent feed for dairy cattle. In experiments conducted at Williston during the past year it was shown that by adding beet tops to the dairy ration the output of milk was increased 16 per cent.

The cost of producing an acre of sugar beets under present conditions as given by several farmers on these projects is about $50.00 per acre. The entire output of the Lower Yellowstone Project last year was 32,000 tons of sugar beets, or a yield of about 11 tons per acre. In a yield of about 11 tons per acre, the larger yield being due to a better prepared seed bed and better care being given the beets; also, early planting is a large factor in increased yields.

The contract price offered by the Great Western Sugar Company at Billings is $9.50 per ton for the 1924 crop. The freight rate to Billings from Dore, the most distant station, is $2.34, of which the purchaser pays $1.10 and the grower the remainder. The freight rate from Williston to Billings is $2.55 per ton. In the opinion of the officials of the sugar company the prospects of growing a sugar beet mill on the Lower Yellowstone Project are excellent as soon as the territory is moved and a large enough acreage is produced, namely about six thousand acres.

Reports from Billings, Montana, territory state that sixty per cent of the farmers that are at present producing sugar beets came to the district as contract laborers and gradually worked up as renters and finally as land owners.

Armistice Day
by Hal Cochran

Six years since gladly we signed it.
The peace pact that ended the war.
Six years of peace and we find it
Brought interest in home ties once more.
All of the land is pursuing
Liberty, happiness, too.
Everyone living and doing
The best that they know how to do.

Six years of peace and it moves us
On to the best things in store.
Nothing there is that behooves us
Again to take part in a war.
Conflict is just an abrasion.
A scar on the sameness of men.
May America ne'er have occasion
To sign any peace pact again.

TO DEDICATE NEW MISSOURI RIVER BRIDGE

Mobridge, S. D., Nov. 11. Virtually every locality in north central South Dakota will be well represented at the dedication of the initial state highway span over the "Big Muddy" here November 12, according to responses announced today by Julian Skaug, master of ceremonies for the event.

Town and county rivalries are seemingly obliterated, he said, in a neighborly surge of enthusiasm over the importance of the bridge opening. From Faith, deep in the west river country, came the declaration that a special train will be required to transport the delegation from that community. From Aberdeen, far to the east, word was sent that an automobile caravan is being assembled.

Similar motorcade parades are being made up in more than a score of towns within a 100-mile radius, while the official character of the assemblage is assured, according to Mr. Skaug, by responses from state officials and state legislators, each of whom have been sent personal invitation to attend.

VALLEY CITY OBSERVES IT

Valley City, N. D., Nov. 11. The mayor issued a proclamation last Saturday asking the business men of the city to respect Armistice Day by closing the stores at least part of the day. Exercises will be held at the college auditorium and a program given. Attorney John Hanchett will deliver the Armistice Day address.

BANQUET AT JAMESTOWN

Jamestown, N. D., Nov. 11.—Today, November 11, the sixth anniversary of the signing of the Armistice that ended the World War will be observed at Jamestown by the American Legion with their annual Armistice Day banquet. The banquet will be held at the Elks Hall and the veterans of the World War will have as their guests of honor the veterans of the Civil War and of the Spanish American War. The banquet will be held at 6:30 and will be followed by a dance at the Co. H armory.

Armistice Day, a legal holiday was observed in the city by the closing of the public offices and the banks.

FARGO'S PLANS

Fargo, N. D., Nov. 11.—Today, Armistice Day, Fargo and Moorhead will unite in the biggest celebration of the day held since the war, according to A. F. Collar, in charge of arrangements for the Fargo American Legion.

All county and city offices and banks were closed all day. The merchants have not been asked to close their stores but have been requested to enable their employees to take part in the celebration. The postoffice will be closed entirely from 1 p. m. to 5 p. m.

James Morris, former serviceman of Carrington, N. D., and state attorney for Foster county, has been engaged as speaker of the day on the program which will follow the parade at the armory.

Following the program in the afternoon, a style show and vaudeville show will be staged at the auditorium beginning at 8 p. m. Practically all the merchants of the city will have some part in the style show and the vaudeville acts have been arranged for between scenes.

There will be two dances going on at the same time in the auditorium, one in the Company B armory and the other upstairs immediately following the style show and vaudeville.

PARADE IN GRAND FORKS

Grand Forks, N. D., Nov. 11.—A parade this morning of ex-servicemen and women, R. O. T. C. and veterans of other wars, started the Armistice Day celebration here. This evening there will be a banquet for ex-servicemen and women at which Congressman O. B. Burton, of this city will speak. Following the banquet the annual Armistice Day parade will take place.

THREE COMMANDERS PARTICIPATE

Grand, N. D., Nov. 11. Minot this morning observed Armistice Day with a principal program presented at the local auditorium in charge of the local Legion post. A feature of the occasion was the participation of three local men who are state commanders of the Legion, the G. A. R. and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, A. B. Carlson, T. C. Conklin, and Leo M. Finnegan, respectively.

SUGAR BEET CULTURE PAYS IN NO. DAKOTA

Is at Present Time Best Paying Crop on Yellowstone Project, Report Says

400 MEXICANS EMPLOYED

(From report of State Engineer W. G. Black)

The best paying crop on the lower Yellowstone and Williston irrigation projects at the present time is sugar beets. A market is available at a fair price for all the sugar beets that can be raised on those projects. However, a change from small grains where one man can care for a large acreage to sugar beets where one man can care for, at most, ten acres, means a very great increase in population or a corresponding increase in hired labor. At present this labor demand is largely met by the importation of Mexican labor from Texas and old Mexico. The Mexicans are good laborers and are paid $25.00 per acre for the season for doing the hand work only. This work consists of blocking and thinning and hoeing the beets, also topping and loading after the beets are lifted. The hand work is needed for a period of seven months but only thirty-five days of actual labor is required during this period. The laborer must find other work during the season to supplement the contract work on sugar beets. In all, the return to the laborer is about $3.00 per day for the actual time worked.

Over 400 Mexicans were used in the Lower Yellowstone district last season. As it is the intention of the farmers to double their last year's crop, which amounted to 3,110 acres, it will be readily seen that a supply of labor is the most serious problem to be met in any extension of irrigated crops in western North Dakota and eastern Montana. As the Mexican is entirely unskilled in American farming methods and is in the majority of cases illiterate, and generally speaking, is not the best human material available for citizenship, it would appear that any expenditure by the state to secure permanent settlers for farming a small acreage of sugar beets, together with milking cows and practicing diversified farming generally, would be well repaid in the increased tax returns.

Sugar beet tops make excellent feed for dairy cattle. In experiments conducted at Williston during the past year it was shown that by adding beet tops to the dairy ration the output of milk was increased 16 per cent. The cost of producing an acre of sugar beets under present conditions as given by several farmers on these projects is about $50.00 per acre. The entire output of the Lower Yellowstone Project last year was 33,000 tons of sugar beets, or a yield of about 11 tons per acre. In individual cases the yield was over 19 tons per acre, the larger yield being due to a better prepared seed bed and better care being given the beets; also, early planting is a large factor in increased yields. The contract price offered by the Great Western Sugar Company at Billings is $9.00 per ton for the 1924 crop. The freight rate to Billings from Dore, the most distant station, is $2.00, of which the purchaser pays $1.10 and the grower the remainder. The freight rate from Williston to Billings is $2.55 per ton. In the opinion of the officials of the sugar company the prospects of securing a sugar beet mill on the Lower Yellowstone Project are excellent as soon as the territory is produced, namely about six thousand acres. Reports from Billings, Montana, territory state that sixty per cent of the farmers that are at present producing sugar beets came to the district as contract laborers and gradually worked up as renters and finally as land owners.

Armistice Day

by Hal Cochran

Six years since gladly we signed it.
The peace pact that ended the war.
Six years of peace and we find it
Brought interest in home ties once more.
All of the land is pursuing
Liberty, happiness, too.
Everyone living and doing
The best that they know how to do.

Six years of peace and it moves us
On to the best things in store.
Nothing there is that behooves us
Again to take part in a war.
Conflict is just an abrasion.
A scar on the sameness of men.
May America ne'er have occasion
To sign any peace pact again.

sovereign is the people, the national honor and glory cannot rise above the average of its citizens. The duty of citizens is not only once in four years to vote, but through every day and every year to maintain a high public spirit, a high sense of justice, a high spirit of morality, a high respect for the laws and a continued and enthusiastic sympathy with knowledge of and interest in our government. "And in that lies the hope of America of the future, as from it have grown the glories of the past. Not in its statesmen nor its orators, not even in the glorious deeds of its Army or its Navy—no, not even in its Constitution or its laws—but in the steady, calm, noble greatness of its interested and intelligent citizens."

TO DEDICATE NEW MISSOURI RIVER BRIDGE
Mobridge, S. D., Nov. 11.—Virtually every locality in north central South Dakota will be well represented at the dedication of the initial state highway span over the "Big Muddy" here November 12, according to responses announced today by Julian Skaug, master of ceremonies for the event. Town and county rivalries are seemingly obliterated, he said, in a neighborly surge of enthusiasm over the importance of the bridge opening. From Faith, deep in the west river country, came the declaration that a special train will be required to transport the delegation from that community. From Aberdeen, far to the east, word was sent that an automobile caravan is being assembled.

Similar motoring quotas are being made up in more than a score of towns within a 100-mile radius, while the official character of the assemblage is assured, according to Mr. Skaug, by responses from state officials and state legislators, each of whom have been sent personal invitation to attend.

RULING MADE IN DRY CASE FAVORS HILL

Court Holds Congress Intended Treat Home-Made Wine Maker Differently TO REVISE PRACTICES?

Baltimore, Nov. 11.—In the trial of Rep. John Philip Hill, in the United States Court here today, for alleged violations of the Volstead act, Judge Morris Super ruled that the "one-half of one percent" clause in the Volstead law does not apply to the sorcerer's aide in the home for home consumption.

Judge Super said "Congress seems to have used the word 'non intoxicant' differently in one section than it did in another. The dry mind Congress plainly intended that persons manufacturing and selling wine exclusively in their homes should be in a class by themselves or otherwise there is no need for this section (section 21). The only reasonable explanation for Congress signaling out home-made wine makers is that Congress did not intend to punish persons for manufacturing unless the wine is sold as intoxicating in fact."

"This opinion seems to be borne out by an opinion expressed in the United States Senate in 1919 when the Volstead act was being debated by the chairman of the committee in charge of the bill. He expressed the opinion when this section was added to the bill by this amendment that order and fruit juices made exclusively for use in the home must be intoxicating in fact."

The ruling was the result of a lengthy argument yesterday by counsel for Hill and U. S. District Attorney Woodcock.

The government chemists testified that Col. Hill's home-made wine had an alcoholic content as high as 11 percent.

Hill's defense was based on the alleged ambiguity of section 21 of the Volstead act which permits the manufacture of home-made fruit juices and cider providing they are "non-intoxicating" but forbids their sale to anyone except those who have a permit to make vinegar from the cider.

NECESSITATES REVISION

Washington, Nov. 11.—The findings of Federal Judge Super in the case of Rep. Hill in Baltimore is regarded here as a mere finding of a violation of the policies and regulations followed by the prohibition commissioner.

RICH CHICAGO CRIMINAL IS SHOT TO DEATH

PURSUE MANY THEORIES

Chicago, Nov. 11. (By the A. P.)—Chicago's latest, best runners' feud, involving troubles and a fight of champions of rival gangs over a woman, were theories followed by the police today in their search for three men who yesterday shot and killed Dion O'Banion, notorious gangster and gangster in his florist's shop.

While they sought Mike Caruso, labor leader, and Margaret Collins, pretty blonde, involved in a fight eight months ago with Louis Altiero and John Bates, alleged lieutenant of O'Banion, the police took precautions to prevent more killings in retaliation.

As a police inquiry progressed it was disclosed that more than the three men who fled after firing seven bullets into O'Banion may have been involved in the slaying. A theory that possibly 28 men, using nine automobiles, effectively blocked traffic in the vicinity of the florist shop while the slayers escaped in their automobile, was evolved after witnesses were questioned.

Morgan A. Collins, police chief, declared the death of O'Banion and Chicago of "its arch criminal."

"I don't doubt that O'Banion was responsible for at least 25 murders in this city," Chief Collins said. "The act in general and the police department in particular can give a deep sigh of relief."

Often under suspicion in connection with killing O'Banion never was tried for murder. Occasionally when he was named in connection with a killing he would appear voluntarily.

"Why, I am a florist," he would say. "If I've ever been in the booze racket, I'm out now."

He never was known to take a drink of beer or whisky, investigators found.

Thousands of Men and Women Now Take Glandogen to Help Regain Normal Health, Vigor and Strength

Dr. Arnold Lorand, of Austria, says in his book, "Old Age Deferred," in speaking of the glands: "We must insist upon the reinforcement of their functions if changed by age or disease by means of extracts obtained from the similar organs of healthy young animals."

GLANDULAR ACTIVITY NECESSARY IF IMPORTANT ORGANS OF BODY PERFORM THEIR FUNCTIONS.

At a recent medical convention in Chicago, Dr. Roy Upham, President of the American Institute of Homeopathy, stated that because of the intimate connection of the nervous system with the glands, many sufferers from nervous disorders were receiving remarkable benefits from glandular treatment. He further stated that this glandular treatment could be taken by mouth like any other medicine, and that an operation is not necessary.

Coolidge Calls Farm-Body To Meet Monday

Washington, Nov. 11. President Coolidge has called the newly-appointed agricultural commission to meet here for conference next Monday.

The organization of eight farm leaders, headed by Robert D. Carey, of Careyhurst, Wyo., will begin on that day the task of mapping out a program for the permanent relief of farming conditions.

Under plan of the President such legislative action as is deemed necessary by the commission in formulating its program will be pushed for enactment at the coming short session of Congress.

Several of the farm organizations are having annual meetings this month, and it is expected their representatives on the commission will bring newly formed views of the bodies into the conference.

Ensign Henry Clay Dresler of the scout cruiser Trenton gave his life for his men. When the explosion occurred, he had a chance to save himself. But he thought only of his "boys." "RAJAH" AT WEMBLEY

Wembley, England, Nov. 11.—There was nothing slow about the "Rajah of Bharatpur." Dressed in regal fashion, he dined at the best restaurants, stopped at the best hotels, attended the most exclusive balls and mingled with persons high in English society. Then, when his creditors became suspicious of their royal debtor, police found out the "rajah" was only Harold Moore, a coal miner.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

ASPECTS OF THE NATIONAL ELECTION

It is axiomatic that voters usually cast their ballots "against" and not "for," but such is not the case in the national election. Mr. Coolidge was given a vote of confidence. He was told the voters like his homely Yankee methods, his Vermont thrift, his simple honesty in meeting public questions. It was Coolidge the people voted for; it was Coolidge they voted for, and not the Republican Party. Mr. Coolidge not only is personally endorsed but he is given the authority to reshape the Republican party to accord with his ideas. He is commanded to be the leader of his party as well as the head of the government. There is reason to believe that the firm-jawed Puritan will do so.

Mr. Coolidge emphasized his principles of government. He wants to run it cheaply, to keep taxes down. He wants to make the government strong, but to prevent its interference into the affairs of the individual. He wants to use its power to restrict illegitimate business, but he wants to remove the fetters from honest business. He wants to preserve the fundamental basis of the government. The people told him, in the greatest popular majority ever given a President, that they want these things. It was a great day for the country. The voters showed faith in Coolidge; the world will have faith in the American people.

Mr. LaFollette, after waiting years for what he considered the psychological time to make his bid for the control of the government and establishment of a new party, failed miserably. His plan of public ownership and revision of the Constitution were both unceremoniously cast upon the scrap heap. The Democratic party emerges the chief opposition party, and Mr. LaFollette lost the balance of power he held in the Senate. Never was a leader more completely defeated in a national election.

Mr. LaFollette will continue in the Senate his powerful voice of protest. He will be a restriction to unbridled license if the majority is tempted in that direction. He may do a useful service in this capacity. As a national leader his star has waned.

Third party leaders, seeking comfort in the election, say the LaFollette popular vote they place between 4,000,000 and 5,000,000 is an argument for him to carry on. But compute it with the Roosevelt vote in 1912, the only other powerful third party movement in recent years. Roosevelt received 4,216,000 votes and Eugene Debs, Socialist, got 897,011. Women did not vote then, so that the popular vote was half of 1924; less, considering growth in population. Wilson's plurality was 2,160,194 and Coolidge's may be 10,000,000 votes. Roosevelt carried six states; LaFollette one. Taft, even, carried two states to one for LaFollette.

The cold figures serve to emphasize the defeat of the Third Party movement. It is an optimistic Third Party man that can find the slightest comfort in them.

The tide turned even in our neighboring state of Minnesota. Magnus Johnson was defeated. Two years ago he was thought ticketed for a long trip to Washington with little need to consider early buying of a round trip coupon. He goes back to the farm. He may ascribe his defeat to many causes.

In passing, the price of wheat may be considered. Senator Shipstead of Minnesota and other LaFollette leaders charged that the increase in the price of wheat was brought about by "Big Business" to influence the election. Foolish "Big Business." Four days after the election is won, it let May wheat rise to a new high level in Chicago. Just throwing its money away. Perhaps Senator Shipstead now will believe that the report from Chicago is true, that it was a report of poor crop prospects in Australia that boosted the price of wheat after election, and not "Big Business."

MINNESOTA'S RESULTS

Minnesota set its face strongly against state ownership at the polls last week. A constitutional amendment which would have authorized the Legislature to build and maintain terminal elevators at Duluth and Minneapolis was decisively defeated. The St. Paul Dispatch declares that state socialism in Minnesota has "been buried under a flood of adverse votes."

The cost of North Dakota's experiment at Grand Forks was used effectively to defeat the Minnesota proposal to launch into a business that can serve no good end but merely involve the taxpayers in additional debt.

This state is accumulating a debt load daily that will be felt in the years to come.

If there were any defense for a state entering the elevator business, it is more likely to be found in the establishment of terminal elevators at the head of the lakes as provided in the Minnesota plan. But not even the informed farmers of North Dakota can cite any benefit to them in a mill and elevator at Grand Forks. The Tribune does not see any merit in the state going into the grain business either at terminals or at inland stations. If such ventures were successful, they serve no governmental end and tend to demoralize a business that directly contributes largely to the general prosperity of the state.

EPINARD

The owner of Epinard refused $300,000 recently for his famous horse. The price amazes people. Bitter comparisons are made with the value of a man. But there's only one Epinard. At 4 per cent interest, $300,000 would yield an income of $12,000 a year. Any man who makes that is "worth" as much as Epinard.

Multiply your year's income by 25 and you have your actual financial worth on a 4 per cent basis. Are you guarding and caring for your body and mind as much as you would a machine, house or business of the same value?

The first beauty contest began when the second woman began to inhabit the earth.

THE BOYS WHO ENDED THE WAR

THE SURRENDER

Can it be possible! Another Armistice Day. Six years since the last shot was fired in the World War. The quick-sands of time swallow rapidly.

You can burn a forest to the ground. Come back next year, green saplings are rising from the ashes. One generation, as man measures it, and you'd never know there had been a fire.

So with the World War. Recovery—rebuilding—were inevitable. They have, however, proceeded faster than even the optimistic hoped. Most of us feared that Europe would be a desolation for years and years. Instead, we find the destroyed already rebuilt amazingly close to pre-war conditions. Youth is growing into manhood. The loss in man-power is rapidly being replaced.

One thing will last for generations—debt. And, with it, high taxes. Monuments to the hideous futility of war.

As for the war itself, sixty Armistice Days rather than six must pass before the world will know the real effects of the conflict on white civilization. This year one thing at least is certain—Europe is infinitely farther from a resumption of hostilities than on Nov. 11 a year ago.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS
BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"Don't you worry," said Mister Pim Pim, the brownie man, to the Twins. "What it wouldn't matter if you were stuck on a mountain twice as high as this one. All I have to do is call my million brownies and your troubles will be over."

"It's a good thing you came, that's all I've got to say," said Nancy. "Not that Nick and I couldn't get away if we wanted to with our magic shoes 'n everything, but the House-That-Jack-Built would be too heavy for us to carry. It would just stick up here on this old mountain top forever."

Mister Pim Pim took a whistle out of his pocket and blew and blew.

At that a horde of tiny men, swarmed up the sides of the mountain, making funny noises as they came.

And they picked up the House-That-Jack-Built on their shoulders as though it was made of card-board and shouting and singing, they bore it down a steep path with Nancy and Nick and Mister Pim Pim inside.

Then very gently they set it on the ground and scampered off to their hiding holes under the ground, that led to Brownland.

"But we aren't any better off than before," said Nick. "We're still miles away from Mother Goose Land, and we can't possibly take Jack's house back to him unless we can find Daddy Gander and his magic dust-pail."

"Hold on, hold on," croaked a hoarse voice down the chimney. "I've been watching the whole affair. I think that it is time for a wise head like mine to help you out."

The Twins and Mister Pim Pim ran outside and there sitting on the roof was a big white crow.

"How do you do," said the white crow. "I've been sitting up here for a long time. Not for fifty years have I enjoyed anything as much as I did, the ride down the mountain. Thanks a lot."

"Oh, are you magic?" asked Nick. "I never saw a white crow."

"No, sir, I'm not magic any more than a hard-boiled egg," laughed the crow. "I'm a mountain crow and lots of mountain crows are white. But speaking of magic, did it ever occur to you that wisdom is worth a thousand times more than all the magic in the world? I've got a wise head, I have, and I use it. I have heard all your troubles and I've been thinking and thinking. I'm going to help you."

"Good!" declared Mister Pim Pim. "Let's hear it."

"Well to begin with," said the crow, "Mother Goose is a very good friend of mine. She comes to the mountain top every day with her broom and sweeps my nest out and tidies up for me. I'm going to tell her about everything and together we shall hunt up Yum Yum Land and Daddy Gander."

"But we're miles and miles from Yum Yum Land!" said Nick. "You'll never find it!"

"Of course we will!" cried the crow. "The Yum Yum Landers are the greatest eaters in all the world. You can hear the people going 'yum yum' at their meals, miles away. Christensen.

It's very unmanly, but true. But I'd better be off. Good-bye!" "Good-bye!" called Mister Pim Pim and the Twins.

Leslie left little Jack here and I am sure that the only communication Mr. Prescott had from her was when she wired for him to send the baby on to her in care of Sara.

I expect, however, that everything is made up between them now for Mr. Prescott has already sent in his resignation and he has offered me a splendid position at the steel plant. I shall have full charge of the stock promotion and advertising. It is the same job Sam had with Mr. Hamilton, so you see I know a great deal about it already.

For the first time in my life I will be able to run a big department just as I wish and as the pay is even larger than it was when Sam had it, I think I can say I have proved myself a successful business woman if not a successful wife.

I sometimes wonder, Bee, if one can be both.

How are you getting along out there among the super-bohemians? I am smiling as I ask this question, for of all queer places for you to settle down, the moving picture capital is the queerest—if all they say of it be true.

I saw Paula Perier's latest picture the other night, and I want to tell you how interested I am in her. She was much better than the story, which was "tiffy." Does Miss Perier always have that sadness lurking in her eyes?

I would very much like to hear her story—her real story—not the flub-dub that is written about her by her press agent. She certainly can plumb depths of emotion that those bits of floss we usually see on the screen only just skim. You literally see the working of her mind and the throbbing of her heart. Tell me about her. I am interested.

Leslie's friend, Ruth Ellington, is here and seems very happy with her new husband, Walter Burke.

It is rather strange, isn't it, that I who seldom like women am so interested in these two women who do not like me. I never saw Miss Perier but once and then she glared at me from those great eyes of hers in a way that made me think that she would like to murder me, or at least send me to some distant prison for life.

Mrs. Burke never sees me if she can help it. However, I have found that my liking of people can never be reasoned out. I like them or dislike them regardless of how they treat me.

By the way, Bee, did I ever talk or write to you about a young man, a cousin of Sam's, who was uncommonly kind to both of us when Sam was recovering his eyesight? When he first went back to work, this chap, Jimmie Condon, was Sam's secretary.

For a while he thought he was in love with me. You see, I was that inevitable older woman to whom he gave the usual boy's first adoration.

I tried, honestly I tried, to be kind to him. I wanted to make him into something that another and younger woman might love and be happy with, for I have always thought that the woman a boy first falls in love with is the one who most unerringly shapes his life.

I do not like, however, to think this is true for I certainly do not want to be blamed for what has just happened. (Copyright, 1924, NEA Service, Inc.)

"Devils Lake Red" Captured

Golden Valley, N. D., Nov. 11.—Word was received here Sunday by State's Attorney Schwartz from the Bankers Protective association of the capture of Devils Lake Red at McIntosh, S. D., and the sheriff and deputy of Mercer county left yesterday for McIntosh to identify him and bring him back for trial.

Devils Lake Red, it will be remembered, was one of the seven bank robbers who confessed complicity in the numerous bank robberies in this territory this summer, and who escaped from the Stanton jail where he was awaiting trial.

EVERETT TRUE

IN READING THAT NEWSPAPER I HOPE YOU GATHERED SOME NEW INFORMATION.

YOUR BODY IS ELECTRICITY

By Albert Apple

Scientists now assure us that all matter is nothing more than combinations of positive and negative particles of electricity. For instance (without going into complicated technical phraseology), your body is solidified electricity.

If so, what is disease?

Is it not, fundamentally, an electrical disturbance?

The body is like a battery generating current or power. The drain on it is steady. In sleep, it partly recuperates or recharges. But generally the battery is "giving out," like the battery you use in your radio.

Finally the radio battery is dead.

So, too, the body dies, its power exhausted.

Max Rubner's theory again comes to mind. He believed: "For every pound of weight of his body at maturity, the average man produces and consumes 362,900 calories of energy before he dies. Death comes when he has consumed that amount. Nothing that he can possibly do will make his body produce more energy; and nothing can prevent his death when that amount of energy is produced."

Some of us burn our current up fast, and die young.

If a way could be found to recharge our bodily batteries, as we recharge a radio storage battery, the elixir of youth would be in man's grasp at last.

If the human body is really nothing but an electrical device or system, disease logically is an electrical defect—a short circuit, "low batteries," poor insulation, inductive troubles, and so on.

Following this line of reasoning, you picture a future physician who, instead of pills and tonics, might treat his patients electrically. To a run-down person he'd say: "Sit down in that chair and I'll start the battery-charger to fill you with new pep."

The nerves are "wires," through which flow mysterious currents.

And what's beyond? The theory has often been advanced, that electricity is not power, but rather a carrier of power.

New York, Nov. 11.—There is one sight in New York that only the winter visitor can see.

Come up the bay or across the river on a ferry between five-thirty and six in the evening.

Before you lies a jewel of a million facets, a great mountain afire with a million lights. Buildings are lost in the darkness and only the lights of the windows are to be seen. All the windows in all the buildings which compose the great man-made mountain of Manhattan are aglitter. Later in the evening the lights will be out and only bulky black pillars of stone will stand out above the dusk-lined canyon of Broadway.

The fantastic magic of light that makes the drab tip of Manhattan one of the most inspiring sights in all America is wrought by serabwomem.

As soon as the skyscrapers have been emptied of the thousands who labor in them by day, the charwomen come to do their work. They come just as darkness comes at this time of the year and so it is that all the lights are on at once.

In summer the work of the charwomen is done before the sun sets and for that reason the summer visitor never sees New York in its most magnificent dress.

A subway car at three o'clock in the morning. . . . Half the passengers asleep, yet all seem to awake in time to get off at their stations. . . .

A grimy toiler of the night embarrassed because a young lady in beautiful evening dress has gone to sleep against his shoulder. The escort of the young lady is asleep with his chin on his chest. . . . A young baby asleep in its mother's arms. And the mother's asleep, too. . . . Four young nabobs inspired to song by the stuff they've been drinking. The noise they make is terrible, but they think it's headline stuff—A drunken bum stretched out full length on the seat, so filthy nobody will sit or stand near him—Three tired girls returning home from a dance, uncorrected and refusing to flirt with the bibulous songsters. . . . When will these people get up? And how will they be able to do a day's work on the morrow?

An Indian medicine show visited the Bronx. Business was poor for several days. Then the Indians hired a little Jewish boy and told him all about the herb medicines they handled.

At night the boy stands under the gasoline flares and tells the Bronxites about the wonderful cures effected by the herbs, while the Indian braves stand by, silently.

Business is much better now. The boy speaks Yiddish fluently.

FABLES ON HEALTH
AIDS TO SLEEP

"If you would sleep well, avoid excitement before retiring."

This was a standard remedy advised by the Jones family doctor, particularly in the case of children who are prone to be restless if some exciting pastime or game has preceded retirement.

A hot bath before retiring is also frequently beneficial for those inclined to suffer from sleeplessness. A mustard footbath is still another aid.

A watch on the evening meal has been recommended by some doctors. They advise that the meal be meatless, or nearly so, and, in any event, that it be a light one. Elimination of tea and coffee at night also has been advised.

Sleeping out of doors has been found an aid to sleep by many, and such a simple thing as removing some of the coverings has been found beneficial.

A main thing to remember is not to worry about it, if wakeful, for this merely irritates the condition.

Is This Your Birthday

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 11—Other people are putting your ideas into profits—you must be an actor as well as a dreamer to succeed.

With great natural capacity, you are apt to permit yourself to be lazy—except in some endeavor in which you are more than usually interested. You cannot judge him a quick as a business affairs will avail you nothing unless you pay strict attention to details.

You have the ability to make yourself quite fascinating socially. You are always happy, carefree and easy—but you do not concentrate enough on what you can and should do.

SPOTTY

(Florence Borner)

Spotty, he is my dog, and I love him a lot. He goes where I go, and stays right on the spot; He's not very pretty, but awfully smart. From Spotty, my doggie I never will part.

Why, one time a fellow lots bigger than I, Sneaked up and intended to steal all my pie; And Spotty just grabbed him, it sure made me laugh, 'Cause he just went a bawling off like a calf.

And once an old tramp came, and scared me so hard, He just came a sneaking right up in the yard; And Spotty just grabbed him quick as a wink, And chewed him up good, 'most before he could think.

Sometimes I dress Spotty up just like a clown, And play we're a circus like what comes to town; If I dress up the Tom cat, he 'most has a fit, But Spotty's a dog, and don't mind it a bit.

Sometimes Mama gives us some cookies, and stuff, And she says boys and dogs never do get enough; Spotty sits in a chair, never lets out a whine, And acts better than children do most of the time.

One day Daddy said to me: "What would you do, If the stork brought a brother or sister to you? And I answered quick: "They are not to be had, Thanks, Spotty and we get along mighty fine."

LEADING MAN WAR HERO IN SPLENDID FILM ROLE

John Bowers enacts the role of hero opposite Madge Bellamy in the Palmer Corporation's all-star production, "The White Sin," which is presented at the Capitol Theatre tomorrow. Big, manly, handsome, and magnetic in screen personality, his role of a partial cripple who was later cured in a new way, inasmuch as it gives him new acting possibilities and a chance for putting the real-life John Bowers on the screen.

The facts are that in real life, Bowers is a world-war hero also. He has never capitalized the fact in motion picture advertising, and only the similarity of certain parts of Harold Shumate's powerful direct screen story with parts of his own experience brought some of the facts to light. It is a well-known fact that Mr. Bowers has an equal following among men, in contrast to the "sheik" type of matinee idol, beloved of women but seldom admired by men. His role in "The White Sin," however, is certain to win him many new friends, for this splendid photograph brings out to the fullest his ability as an actor.

THE ELTINGE
"Triumph," the feature at the Eltinge theatre for Wednesday and Thursday is a De Mille picture which means gorgeous in story, cast and settings. Leatrice Joy, Rod La Rocque and Victor Varconi have the principal roles. Then there's Charles Ogle, Julia Faye, Theodore Kosloff, Robert Edeson, ZaSu Pitts, George Fawcett and Raymond Hatton, all featured.

"Triumph" is the story of a strong man ruined by money and a weak man regenerated through the loss of it, and through a wonderful girl. It takes one man from the haunts of the rich and tosses him into the gutter. It takes another from poverty to wealth and high position. It shows you a factory girl in the whirl and thunder of ponderous machinery. It shows the same girl at the pinnacle of what she calls "Triumph," with wealth, jewels, applause.

St. Mary's Defeat B. H. S.

St. Mary's Basketball team defeated the Independent team of the Bismarck High School last evening. The game was fast and furious throughout, with considerable roughness. St. Mary's led at the first half by a score of 10 to 11. At the end of the third quarter the game was a tie, 15 to 15. At the beginning of the fourth quarter St. Mary's took the lead once more keeping it until the final whistle. Score then stood 15 to 24 in favor of St. Mary's.

The lineup:
St. Mary's: B. H. S.:
M. Hummel, R. F. Hulenbeck, W. Starke, L. F. Haas, G. McMarty, C. Scroggins, C. Finlayson, R. G. Dapkin, Sub: St. Mary's: Hagen for C. McMarty, McMarty for Starke, B. H. S.: Shepard for LeRoy, Brown for Scroggins, Referee: Hiland, Umpire: Olson.

Unsuccessful Wives The Gorgeous Girl

BY CYNTHIA GRAY
Hardly anyone but we know that Catharine will be 35 her next birthday. You'd guess her age at about 25. She's as slim as a silver birch tree, and there isn't a line in her face. I never have seen a Follies girl who is any prettier than Catharine when she's dressed for a party. And her clothes are wonderful.

So I was not prepared for the shock I had about a month ago when I stopped in at her house on my way down town. George, her husband, was just leaving. He looked gloomier than usual.

Her door was open and I went in. Catharine was sitting up in her lace-trimmed bed, having her coffee. But I hardly recognized her.

Her head was tied up in a white cloth, there was a rubber strap under her chin, and her face and neck were smeared with a sort of gray plaster. She was wearing a large pair of white cotton gloves.

"My word, what's happened to you?" I asked. "Automobile wreck?" "Nothing," she said. "But don't make me laugh or the mud will crack. Sit down and have some coffee, and I'll tell you all about it." "Mud?" I repeated. "Mud?" "Don't pretend you haven't heard of a mud-pack for the face," Catharine said. "You know it's supposed to remove lines and wrinkles. The rubber under my chin is only a strain I wear at night to keep from having a double chin, and the cloth tied around my head is just to hold the water-wave combs in."

"Why the gloves?" I asked. "I simply had to know." "Just to keep the cold-cream on Constitution is a dangerous disease. It can lead to many others. Twenty years' suffering with constipation determined this man's health. Kellogg's Bran restored it—as it has done for thousands. This is what he says:

"Gentlemen: After eating Kellogg's Bran twice a day for one month I find it not only an 'Easy Way to Avoid Constipation,' but an easy and most pleasant way to cure it. I have been troubled with constipation for more than twenty years. After adopting the milk and bran diet I find my stomach greatly improved, and find it a specific for constipation. I deem it only justice that you should know what your product has done for me, and what it is capable of doing for others." (The original of this letter is on file at the Kellogg Company, Battle Creek, Mich.)

Girls! Hair Grows Thick and Beautiful

35-Cent "Dandergine" Does Wonders for Lifeless, Neglected Hair

A gleamy mass of luxuriant hair full of gloss, lustre and life shortly follows a genuine toning up of neglected, scaly scalp with Dandergine. Falling hair, itching scalp, and the dandruff is corrected immediately. Thin, dry, wispy or fading hair is quickly invigorated, taking on new strength, color and youthful beauty. "Dandergine" is delightful on the hair; a refreshing, stimulating tonic—not sticky or greasy! Any drugstore.

my hands from soiling the coverlet," Catharine explained.

I went over to the dressing-table. Beside the gram was a small box, labeled "Nose Cream" and a bottle of "Muscle Oil." There was a large white tray filled with rouge and lipstick and long eye-brow pencils. There were five bottles of French perfume, and a great jar of hair pomade.

"What does Jack think of all this?" I couldn't help saying. "Oh, he's used to it now," Catharine said lightly. "When we were first married, he couldn't bear to see me with cold cream on my face even. But I just told him I was going to keep you."

"How can he kiss you goodby through that mud-pack?" I went on. "Oh, he doesn't any more, anyway. I hardly see him in the morning. You know, yourself, how matter-of-fact married people are."

But I know that not all of them are matter-of-fact. And that if they are, something's wrong. And it's easy to see that Catharine has failed as a wife because she doesn't care how she looks when her husband's around as long as the rest of the world thinks she's beautiful and young.

Lost Battalion, Fine Picture, Local Verdict

Men of the famous Lost Battalion who for six days held off grimly while they were cut off from the American army and entirely surrounded by Germans in the Argonne forest, took part in the filming of "The Lost Battalion," motion picture which was shown under the auspices of the Bismarck Post of The American Legion at the Auditorium last night. The picture will be shown again tonight at 8:30 p. m. The late Colonel Charles Whittlesey, commander of the battalion; Captain George McMurtry and other officers and men who went through that tragic test in the beleaguered forest, helped to direct the picture and acted in it.

As a result of the extreme pains taken to make this picture accurate in the smallest detail, "The Lost Battalion" is said to be the most authentic motion picture of the world war that has ever been filmed. Whole scenes from the harrowing experiences of these men on the hillside in the forests, exposed to the taking fire of German rifles and machine guns, without food, wounded and without medical care, are reproduced in this picture.

Linked with all this is a Chinese-tong war, a love romance, scenes in the ghetto of New York's east side, from which came the greater part of the 550 men who figured in the heroic episode, 550 whose numbers had dwindled, when they were rescued after their grim refusal to surrender to the enemy horses surrounding them, to 443, of whom only 191 were able to walk when relieved.

Oscar merely became mixed in directions, he said, and the derisive yells that greeted his run were mistaken for cheering.

Ten teammates thundered down the field in pursuit and he mistook them for the enemy. One of Oscar's fellow players brought him down five yards from the Bear goal line.

Big, manly, handsome, and magnetic in screen personality, his role of a partial cripple and war hero presents him to his many "fans" of both sexes in a new way, inasmuch as it gives him new acting possibilities and a chance for putting the real-life John Bowers on the screen. The facts are that in real life, Bowers is a world-war hero also. He has never capitalized the fact in motion picture advertising, and only the similarity of certain parts of Harold Shumate's powerful screen story with parts of his own experience brought some of the facts to light. It is a well-known fact that Mr. Bowers has an equal following among men, in contrast to the "sheik" type of matinee idol, beloved of women but seldom admired by men. His role in "The White Sin," however, is certain to win him many new friends, for this splendid photoplay brings out to the fullest his ability as an actor.

THE ELTINGE
"Triumph" the feature at the Eltinge theatre for Wednesday and Thursday is a De Mille picture which means gorgeous in story, cast and settings. Leatrice Joy, Rod La Rocque and Victor Varconi have the principal roles. Then there's Charles Ogle, Julia Faye, Theodore Kosloff, Robert Edison, Zasu Pitts, George Fawcett and Raymond Hatton, all featured.
"Triumph" is the story of a strong man ruined by money and a weak man regenerated through the loss of it, and through a wonderful girl. It takes one man from the haunts of the rich and tosses him into the gutter. It takes another from poverty to wealth and high position. It shows you a factory girl in the whirl and thunder of ponderous machinery. It shows the same girl at the pinnacle of what she calls "Triumph," with wealth, jewels, applause.

St. Mary's Defeat B. H. S.

At the beginning of the fourth quarter St. Mary's took the lead once more keeping it until the final whistle. Score then stood 15 to 24 in favor of St. Mary's.

The lineup:
St. Mary's: M. Hummel, R. F. Holsenbeck, W. Starke, L. F. Haas, G. McMurtry, C. Scroggins, C. McMurtry, R. G. LeRoy, C. Finlayson, L. G. DaRoch.

Unsuccessful Wives The Gorgeous Girl

BY CYNTHIA GREY

Hardly anyone but me knows that Catharine will be 36 her next birthday. You'd guess her age at about 25. She's as slim as a silver birch tree, and there isn't a line in her face. I never have seen a Follies girl who is as pretty as Catharine when she's dressed for a party. And her clothes are wonderful. So I was not prepared for the shock I had about a month ago when I stopped in at her house on my way down town. George, her husband, was just leaving. He looked gloomier than usual.

Her door was open and I went in. Catharine was sitting up in her lace-trimmed bed, having her coffee. But I hardly recognized her.

Her head was tied up in a white cloth, there was a rubber strap under her chin, and her face and neck were smeared with a sort of gray plaster. She was wearing a large pair of white cotton gloves.
"My word, what happened to you?" I asked. "Automobile wreck?"
"Nothing," she said. "But don't make me laugh or the mud will crack. Sit down and have some coffee, and I'll tell you all about it."

"Mud?" I repeated. "Mud?"
"Don't pretend you haven't heard of a mud-bath for the face," Catharine said. "You know it's supposed to remove lines and wrinkles. The rubber under my chin is only a strap I wear at night to keep from having a double chin, and the cloth tied around my head is just to hold the water-wave combs in."

"Why the gloves?" I asked. I simply had to know.

Find Kellogg's Bran "Easy way to avoid constipation" after suffering for years

Constipation is a dangerous disease. It can lead to many others. Twenty years' suffering with constipation undermined this man's health. Kellogg's Bran restored it—as it has done for thousands. This is what he says:
"Gentlemen: After eating Kellogg's Bran twice a day for one month I find it not only an 'Easy Way to Avoid Constipation,' but an easy and most pleasant way to cure it. I have been troubled with constipation . . . for more than twenty years . . . after adopting the milk and bran diet I find my stomach greatly improved, and find it a specific for constipation. I deem it only just that you should know what your product has done for me, and what it is capable of doing for others." my hands from soiling the coverlet," Catharine explained.
I went over to the dressing-table. Beside the cream was a small box labeled "Nose Cream" and a bottle of "Muscle Oil." There was a large white tray filled with rouge and lipstick and long eye-brow pencils. There were five bottles of French perfume, and a great jar of hair pomade.

"What does Jack think of all this?" I couldn't help saying.
"Oh, he's used to it now," Catharine said lightly. "When we were first married, I couldn't bear to see me with cold cream on my face even. But I just told him I was going to keep young."

"How can he kiss you good-bye through that mud-pack?" I went on.
"Oh, he doesn't any more, anyway. I hardly see him in the morning. You know, yourself, how matter-of-fact married people are."

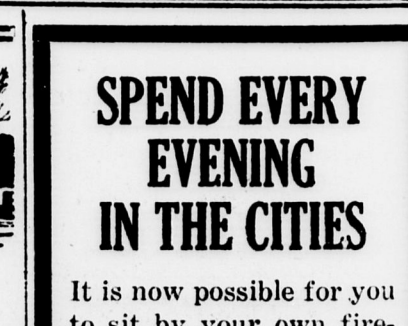

But I know that not all of them are matter-of-fact. And that if they are, something's wrong. And it's easy to see that Catharine has failed as a wife because she doesn't care how she looks when her husband's around as long as the rest of the world thinks she's beautiful and young.

forest, helped to direct the picture and acted in it.
As a result of the extreme pains taken to make this picture accurate in the smallest detail, "The Lost Battalion" is said to be the most authentic motion picture of the world war that has ever been filmed. Whole scenes from the harrowing experiences of those men on the hillsides in the forests, exposed to the raking fire of German rifles and machine guns, without food, wounded and without medical care, are reproduced in this picture.

Linked with all this is a Chinese tong war, a love romance, scenes in the Ghetto of New York's east side, from which came the greater part of the 550 men who figured in the heroic episode, 550 whose numbers had dwindled, when they were rescued after their grim refusal to surrender to the enemy hordes surrounding them, to 443, of whom only 194 were able to walk when relief came.

Almost Scores For Opponents

Chicago, Nov. 11.—Equipment of Oscar Knop, Chicago Bear football team fullback, with a compass was under consideration today.

Stealing second with the bases full was compared with Oscar's act in the Bear-Tiger game yesterday, wherein the big fullback scooped up a fumble and ran 35 yards toward his own goal before he was tackled by a teammate to prevent him scoring for the opposition.

Oscar merely became mixed in directions, he said, and the derisive yells that greeted his run were mistaken for cheering.

Ten teammates thundered down the field in pursuit and he mistook them for the enemy. One of Oscar's fellow players brought him down five yards from the Bear goal line.

UNCOVER BIG FRAUD RING

Chicago, Nov. 11.—Ben Newark, assistant state fire marshal, who was jailed on a charge of contempt in connection with the trial two years ago of Governor Len Small, is being sought today by federal agents, charging counterfeiting 18-erty bonds and treasury saving stamps. With him are named ten others, two of them women. Seventy other Chicagoans, several of them prominent politically, were said by federal agents to be involved in the alleged counterfeiting operations which affected banks here in New York and Omaha.

CHICAGO WILL CLAIM TIE IN BIG 10 FIGHT

Ready to Dispute Claim of Illinois if Both Remain Undefeated

Chicago, Nov. 11.—At the close of the Western conference football season, if either Illinois or Chicago has met defeat an Illinois-Chicago tie for the Western conference championship will be claimed by the University of Chicago and gold football honors, will be awarded the players. This was learned today from the Chicago athletic department, where A. A. Slutz, veteran coach, was in high elation over the gripping battle in which his men carried their offense through the Illinois team, scoring the first touchdowns of the game.

In case Chicago wins from Northwestern and Wisconsin in the remaining games, the Illinois wins from Minnesota and Ohio, the Midway team will claim a championship tie between Chicago and Illinois.

The Chicago leaders say the situation, in case neither Chicago nor Illinois meets defeat, will parallel the conference race of 1915, when Minnesota and Illinois escaped defeat and ended the season with victories, the Minnesota-Illinois tie and an Illinois-Ohio tie.

With no defeats this year for the two leaders, the season will end with three victories each for Illinois and Chicago, one tie for Illinois and two for Chicago.

Stan Harris Is Satisfied With Contract

Washington, Nov. 11.—Reports that Stanley Harris, 1924 "miracle man" of baseball, was at loggerheads with President Clark Griffith, were denied today by the youthful manager, who said he had signed a 1925 contract three weeks ago and was "delighted" with the terms.

The new contract supercedes one made prior to 1924 when Harris took the helm of the Washington club, which was to have run through the forthcoming season. The fact that Harris brought across a pennant winner, naturally changed the complexion of the salary clause.

Rumors emanating from cities with American league franchises that the young manager had encountered difficulties with President Griffith on the salary question were termed "bed-time stories" by Harris. He would not disclose the terms of the new contract.

Spaulding To Be Retained By Minnesota

Minneapolis, Nov. 11.—Bill Spaulding will be retained in the capacity of head football coach at the University of Minnesota in 1925, the sports editor of The Tribune learned Monday from an authoritative source says the Minneapolis Tribune.

Spaulding's three-year contract, signed when he came to Minnesota from Kalamazoo normal in 1922 will expire at the close of the present season and he will be tendered a one-year renewal at his own request.

The Gopher coach has a wealth of freshmen material this fall and he is anxious to show the gridiron world what he can do with this material in 1925.

Spaulding has an offer from an insurance company at a salary almost double that which he receives as football coach, but through pride alone the Gopher mentor is willing to sacrifice the financial loss to prove his ability to give Minnesota a football team that will rate with best in the Big Ten.

revive U.S. Shipping of the 7 Seas

Is the American flag once more to be a familiar sight on every ocean? Chairman O'Connor, of the U. S. Shipping Board, believes there is at least a chance that it will, Congress, which has given the Board authority, on the recommendation of these men, to spend up to $75,000,000, if necessary, in carrying out their plans.

The ships over which the flag will fly, however, when the Shipping Board's program is completed, will be very different from those famous craft of the older American merchant marine. Instead of lofty masts and tapering spars, stubby cargo derricks. Instead of acres of snowy cotton duck, throbbing machinery below decks. This very day, in fact, in a workshop in Buffalo, a giant engine is spinning in a thirty-day endurance test, expected to prove its fitness to provide the last touch needed for the success of the Government's plan, by giving American ships a motive power superior to all rivals. To that engine, the product of the technical staff of the Worthington Pump and Machinery Corporation, the eyes of the Shipping Board's experts, and of American Shipping men generally, are turned in hope and expectation.

World Commerce the Prize

The prize is the commerce of the world. In those golden days of the forties and early fifties when the swift clipper ships raced across the seas, there were handsome business rewards luring the daring seafarers on. Carries for export went to the ships whose records guaranteed swiftest delivery.

Flimsy silks, rich brocades, teas and spices from the Far East—at most any freight demanded was paid to the first ship home with her cargo. So the captains crowded on sail and drove through tempest and fair weather to the limit of endurance of men, rope, canvas and stout hull.

Across of gleaming white sail flashing in the sunshine, ships heeled over until lee rails dripped under, urged on to victory by the finest and most intrepid seamen ever born—it was a glorious age for America, when no vessels in the world could equal ours. The "Flying Cloud," whose record of eighty-nine days around the Horn, from Sandy Hook to the Golden Gate, on two successive passages, still stands unapproached by any sailing vessel—the "Dreadnaught," that under Captain Samuel Saranow swept across the Atlantic in twelve days, from Sandy Hook to Cape Clear—such were the ships of those romantic days.

And then this blaze of glory that inspired artists and writers to pour out their souls in tributes to our wonderful clippers and the men who sailed them, flickered down to a dull glow, and went out. Dinky, clumsy coal-burning craft, belching clouds of sooty smoke, wiped the clippers off the seas.

The officials are entirely too technical. Without a doubt, the open style of game, featuring intricate shifts and forward passes from many unusual formations, offers plenty of chances for the official to blow his whistle or horn if inclined to be severely technical.

Many of the leading coaches are contending that time after time the game is stopped for some infraction of the rule when the ship had no bearing whatever on the play.

The coaches insist that the football fans want to see the players advance the ball rather than the officials—and rightly so.

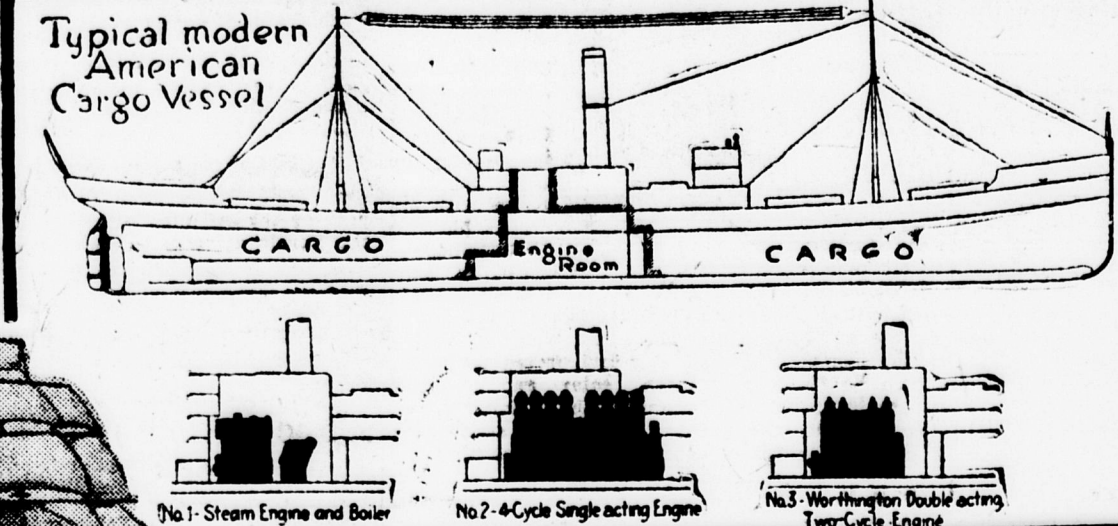

Scores of football games are spoiled for the spectator every year, because the officials insist on going on parade.

OUT OUR WAY

of Commerce points out, is in the position of a merchant whose business has undergone a great expansion in territory, and who needs improved delivery service.

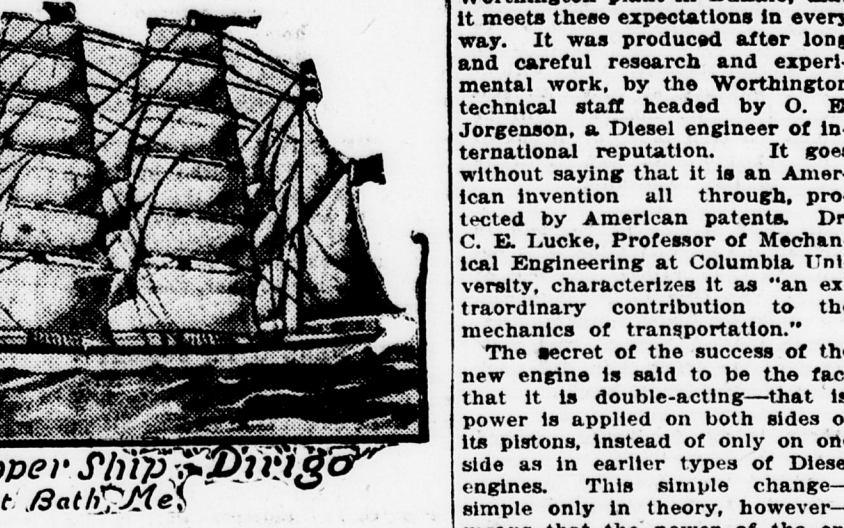

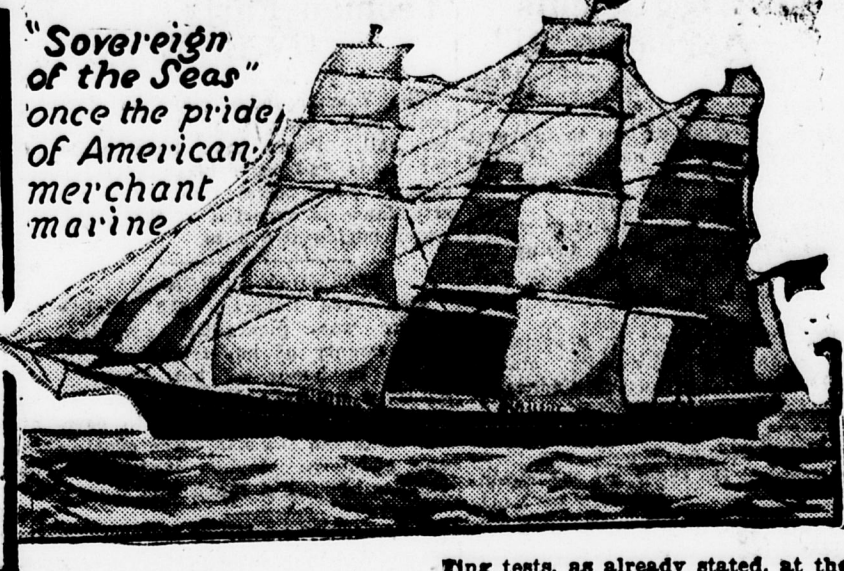

Everyone connected with the problem—former Chairman Hurley, Benson and Lasker, and present Chairman O'Connor, of the Shipping Board; Secretary of Commerce Hoover; and such private but nationally known shipping experts as President Franklin of the International Mercantile Marine Company, President Farrell of the U. S. Steel Corporation, and others who have devoted years of study to the subject—insist that any delay in the past American monopoly even its own carrying trade. It is the consensus of opinion of these experts that the nation should carry about fifty per cent of its foreign trade, in both directions, under its own flag.

What the Ships Must Do

But to do this, as these experts have testified in hearings before congressional committees, American ships must be able to compete on an even or better than even terms, from the point of view of cheapness and efficiency, with European and Japanese ships whose operating expenses, for various reasons, have in the past always been lower than those of American ships. It is a fundamental law, they say, of ocean shipping, that cargoes seek the lowest level of freight rates, and only the ships that can make a profit at that lowest level, can survive the hard times of the post-war years they have prospered. The Shipping Board's investigators found that European motorships in many cases were showing profits on cargoes that would have meant heavy loss to steamships, because the motorship's fuel bill is only about one-third that of a steamer, and manned by the highest-paid labor in the world, can turn out the best and cheapest goods, because they have the best machinery, these men say. American ships can do the same.

The new American ship will be a motorship. That is, the steam machinery in the Emergency Fleet vessels, the Shipping Board plans, will be replaced by Diesel engines or motors, working on somewhat the same principle as the automobile engine, but using the cheapest grade of heavy oil, and in many respects the most efficient and economical kind of power machinery yet invented.

Motorships have been known in Europe since before the war. During the hard times of the past four years they have prospered. The Shipping Board's investigators found that European motorships in many cases were showing profits on cargoes that would have meant heavy loss to steamships, because the motorship's fuel bill is only about one-third that of a steamer, and manned by the highest-paid labor in the world, can turn out the best and cheapest goods, because they have the best machinery, these men say. American ships can do the same.

and on long voyages a steamer's fuel bill is at least one-half her total expenses.

Another saving—the motorship needs no froun or coal passers. Better Engines Needed

But not only the Shipping Board, but the many distinguished American engineers—such men as President Ferguson of the New York News Shipbuilding & Drydock Company, and Daniel H. Corn, who supervised the construction of all the steel ships of the Government fleet—came to the conclusion that an American Diesel motor could be produced that would be almost as much superior to the European engines, as they in turn were to steam engines. The European engines were economical in fuel, but they were too large, too heavy—they actually took up more space in the ship than a steam engine. The American motor must eliminate that objection.

It is now confidently believed by such of these men as have inspected the new engine, now undergoing

Millions Can Live on Deserts, He Says

BY A. H. FREDERICK
NEA Service Writer
San Francisco, Nov. 11.—Land now considered desert and arctic waste will support millions. The world need not worry about over-population so long as most of the world's surface still awaits the pioneer.

So declares Vilhjalmur Stefansson, explorer. He said today he would devote the rest of his life to demonstrating the usefulness of the arctic of the interior of Australia, Africa and parts of America now considered worthless.

In March he sails for Africa for a four-month trip across the desert.

Room for Expansion

"I want to demonstrate the practicability of living in new lands," he says, "then try to educate our people out of their almost superstitious errors concerning those parts of the world they never have seen."

"We must find places for expansion if we would escape serious internal complications. It is necessary to keep alive the virile pioneer spirit by providing new lands for pioneers to conquer."

Seven out of 10 of the "desert dangers" one reads about are not met, Stefansson insists.

"If you had been a schoolboy or girl in 1800," he explains, "you would have recited glibly to your teacher, 'All our nation west of the Mississippi River is a desert.'"

"So it is with our 'deserts' today. 'Most folks thing the arctic is an unbroken range of ice and snow, with atmosphere too freezing for comfortable life. Popular conception, yes, but far from the truth!'

"The winters in the Dakotas, Montana and Manitoba, while shorter, are almost as cold."

750 Arctic Flowers

"The wheat belt of Siberia contains many portions colder than most of the arctic. The minimum temperature at the north pole is 60 degrees below zero, while in some habitable parts of Siberia we find relative temperatures of around 85 degrees below."

"There are 750 varieties of flowering plants in the polar region, engendered by the moderate and warm temperatures. In some localities the thermometer often shows 90 to 100 degrees in the shade."

"Flies and mosquitoes abound through these regions. Butterflies and bumblebees are found on the northern coast."

"The only snow in the summer is in the mountains. At Point Barrow, the most northerly tip of Alaska, you'd have to travel 800 miles south and climb a mountainside before you found any."

Similar superstitions surround the Australian dry deserts, the explorer asserts.

"Australia," he points out, "is generally pictured as a vast desert surrounded by a narrow seaboard strip of fertile country."

"That's another misconception. There is no part of the continent where there is not food for stock, though drinking water often does present quite a problem."

"But even the dryness is exaggerated. It usually can be found if

WILTON CORN SHOW GOOD

Preliminary to State Show
Produces Fine Exhibits

Wilton, N. D., Nov. 11.—Oscar Anstrom won 1st prize and Anton Kjersten 2nd on Dent Corn. Oscar Anstrom won 1st prize on Semi-dent Corn and Mike Gregory 2nd, second, and Walter Kirke wins 1st prize on Flint Corn and R. J. Dennis 2nd, in the Wilton Corn show.

The First National Bank of Wilton planned a corn show about a month ago offering to give a 1st and 2nd cash prize on Dent Corn, Semi-dent Corn and Flint Corn. As a result 29 ten ear exhibits were brought in and 18 other exhibits consisting of cabbage, buckwheat, Kola Wheat, potatoes, mangels, rutabagas, cucumbers, pumpkins, summer squash, sweet clover, hullless oats, Ruby wheat, Black Macaroni wheat and Marquis wheat. One mangel weighed 19 pounds, one pumpkin 18 pounds, one rutabaga 13½ pounds and one potato 3 pounds.

The corn exhibits were judged Saturday evening by J. M. Thompson and Harry Taffin of Wilton and County Agent A. L. Norling of Washburn. Many of the samples were so excellent and so close that the judges found it hard to finally decide on the prize winners. A few real excellent samples would have been awarded prizes but for the fact that they contained too much moisture and were too soft. Had they been selected a week or two earlier they would have been placed at the top. The judges placed unitarity and dryness as one of the main requirements especially in the Dent Corn. As the Semi-dents and Flints are more sure to ripen every year, less stress was laid on maturity and dryness of sample.

Mr. Norling reported that this was as good a Corn Show as he had seen at some County Fairs and much credit for the successful show is due the First National Bank of Wilton and the following farmers who brought in exhibits:

J. M. Thompson, Math Binsfield, Anton Kjersten, R. J. Dennis, Mike Gregory, Gunder Hagen, Martin Hagen, John Dahlgren, Frank Peterson, C. J. Cleveland, Oscar Anstrom, A. D. Hitt, J. R. Legion Favors Conservation Of Resources
Chicago, Nov. 11.—A law to place all material and man power resources of the nation at the disposal of the government and to eliminate war profiteering as insurance for peace was declared by James A. DRAIN, national commander of the American Legion, to be the aim of the Legion. He spoke at a luncheon at which Capt. Lowell H. Smith, commander of the world flight, and Lieut. Leslie Arnold were guests of the Advertising Men's post of the Legion.
"We are favoring a bill to institute peace," he said. "It is a measure which aims to put at the government's disposal all material resources of the nation, as well as manpower."
"It is frankly intended to increase fighting efficiency in the highest degree, as well as to eliminate the profit from war."
MICE CAUSE PANIC

The mice sunk their teeth into the shoestrings of two women passengers. The women, in a panic, jumped out of their compartment and onto the ground just before the speeding train came to a steel bridge.

This puzzle is no cinch. Frankly, to be able to solve it without your wife's or dictionary's aid would require a medical course, three years' training in Scotland, and a course in geology. Even then you might get stuck on 57 vertical. However, the definitions are simple and a few unkeyed letters are told. It is an excellent puzzle for those who have correctly solved a dozen previous puzzles and think they are good.

VOTE DIVIDED ON CO. AGENT

Three Vote to Discontinue and Three to Continue
Washburn, N. D., Nov. 11. The first concrete example of the effect caused by the death of a motorist in a gas station was demonstrated Thursday in North Dakota, according to results tabulated at the North Dakota Agricultural college. Totals were very close in each of the three counties, the aggregate vote showing a lead of 109 in favor of county agent work.
In Adams county the majority to retain county agent work was 210 with three precincts to hear from which will not materially change the total. Slope county vote to retain agent, 819 to 598, a majority of 221. Golden Valley county the final total showed a lead of 27 for county agent work. Two years ago Golden Valley county voted to discontinue the work by a majority of 12.
Counties in which the work lost were Mercer, 934 to 1054; Bottineau, 1911 to 2088, and Foster, where the majority was only 68.
Trio Against Instituting Work
A vote was also taken on instituting the work in three counties where county agents are not employed, and the results were against such action in each of the counties, Traill, Steele and Hettinger. Final returns have not been received from these counties, but the negative votes were leading by less than a 200 in Steele and Hettinger.

HUMAN SKULL IS FOUND

Washburn, N. D., Nov. 11.—Armond Olson picked up the skull of a human, along the river bottom by the Laurentzen place west of town. Although a diligent search was made no other bones could be found and there is no idea as to where it came from or how long it has been there.
The skull was in a tan shape of preservation. Some of the teeth were still in the upper jaw. The lower jaw and bone were separated from the skull itself. It was small in size, box forehead and wide nose bridges, and those who have seen it, believe it to have been the head of an Indian woman. The teeth were worn down as if the person had obtained considerable age before death. Mr. Olson left the skull at the Wahl-barber shop.

Legion Favors Conscription Of Resources
Chicago, Nov. 11.—A law to place all material and man power resources of the nation at the disposal of the government and to eliminate war profiteering as insurance for peace was declared by James A. Dray, national commander of the American Legion, to be the aim of the Legion. He spoke at a luncheon at which Capt. Lowell H. Smith, commander of the world flight, and Lieut. Leslie Arnold were guests of the Advertising Men's post of the Legion.

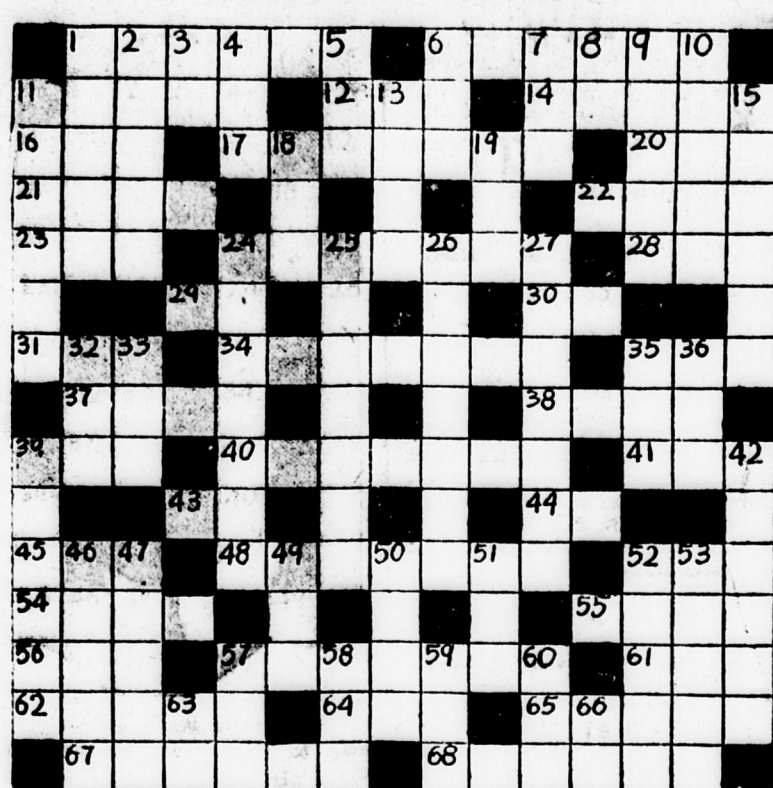

"We are favoring a bill to insure peace," he said. "It is a measure which aims to put at the government's disposal all material resources of the nation, as well as manpower."

"It is frankly intended to increase fighting efficiency in the highest degree, as well as to eliminate the profits from war."

MICE CAUSE PANIC

The mice sunk their teeth into the shoestrings of two women passengers. This puzzle is no cinch. Frankly, to be able to solve it without your wife's or dictionary's aid would require a medical course, three years' sojourn in Scotland, and a course in geology. Even then you might get stuck on 57 vertical. However, the definitions are simple and a few unkeyed letters are told. It is an excellent puzzle for those who have correctly solved a dozen previous puzzles and think they are good.

HUMAN SKULL IS FOUND

Washburn, N. D., Nov. 11.—Armond Olson picked up the skull of a human, along the river bottom by the Lorentzen place west of town. Although a diligent search was made no other bones could be found and there is no idea as to where it came from or how long it has been there. The skull was in a fair shape of preservation. Some of the teeth were still intact in the upper jaw. The lower jaw had become separated from the skull itself. It was small in size, low forehead and wide nose bridges and those who have seen it, believe it to have been the head of an Indian woman. The teeth were worn down, as if the person had obtained considerable age before death. Mr. Olson left the skull at the Wahlbarber shop.

CHICAGO WILL CLAIM TIE IN BIG 10 FIGHT

Ready to Dispute Claim of Illinois if Both Remain Undeclared

Chicago, Nov. 11.—At the close of the Western conference football season, it is either Illinois or Chicago that will claim the championship of the Western conference. The Chicago Athletic department, where A. A. Stang, veteran coach, was in high station over the gripping battle in which his men carried their offense through the Illinois team, scoring the first touchdowns of the game.

In case Chicago wins from Northern Wisconsin and Wisconsin in the remaining games, and Illinois wins from Minnesota and Ohio, the Midway team will claim a championship between Chicago and Illinois.

The Chicago Athletic department, which has been the champion of the conference since 1915, when Minnesota and Illinois escaped defeat, and ended the season with victories, the Minnesota Illinois tie and Illinois Ohio tie.

With no record of the year for the two leaders, the season will end with three victories each for Illinois and Chicago, on the one for Illinois and two for Chicago.

Stan Harris Is Satisfied With Contract

Washington, Nov. 11.—Reports that Stanley Harris, 1924 "miracle man" of baseball, was at long last made a part of the Washington club, were denied today by the youthful major leaguer, who said he had signed a 1925 contract with the team and was "delighted" with the terms.

The new contract supercedes one made prior to 1921 when Harris took the helm of the Washington club, which was to have run through the forthcoming season. The fact that Harris brought a new pennant winner, naturally changed the complexion of the salary clause.

Rumors emanating from cities with American league franchises that the young manager had encountered difficulties with President Griffith on the salary question were termed "wildcat stories" by Harris. He would not discuss the terms of the new contract.

Spaulding To Be Retained By Minnesota

Minneapolis, Nov. 11.—Bill Spaulding will be retained in the capacity of head football coach at the University of Minnesota in 1925, the sports editor of The Tribune learned Monday from an authoritative source. Spaulding, a native of Minnesota, who came to Minnesota from Kansas in 1922, will expire at the close of the present season and he will be tendered a one-year renewal of his contract.

The Tribune has been a faithful supporter of Spaulding and he is anxious to show the gridiron world what it can do with this material in 1925.

Spaulding has in effect from insurance companies at a salary of most double that which he receives as football coach, but through pride in the game he is willing to sacrifice the "national" loss to make a man of it to give Minnesota a football team that will rate with the best in the Big Ten.

COACHES INSIST JUDGES OF PLAY TOO TECHNICAL

By NEA Service
New York, Nov. 11.—The parts of the football game that are coming back from the football coaches that they are too technical.

Too many people suffer from, aching backs, distressing kidney disorders and rheumatic aches and pains. Often this is due to faulty kidney action and there's danger of hardened arteries, dropsy, gravel and Bright's disease. Don't let weak kidneys wear you out. Use Doan's Pills before it is too late! Doan's is a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. Doan's have helped thousands. They should help you. Here is one of many Doan's cures:

J. M. Davidson, Box Fourth St., says: "I used Doan's Pills and they cured me of kidney complaint. My kidneys weren't doing as they should and for a long time I was flat on my back with dull, aching feeling. I had blinding, dizzy spells and could see black specks before my eyes. I asked the druggist for a good kidney remedy and he gave me Doan's Pills. I was no time in getting over my trouble and I am pleased to give Doan's my endorsement."

Revive American Invention revive U.S. Shipping of the 7 Seas

Is the American flag once more to be a familiar sight on every ocean?

Chairman O'Connor, of the U. S. Shipping Board, believes there is at least a chance that it will, Congress, which has given the Board authority, on the recommendation of these men, to spend up to $75,000,000, if necessary, in carrying out their plans.

The ships over which the flag will fly, however, when the Shipping Board's program is completed, will be very different from those famous craft of the older American merchant marine. Instead of lofty masts and tapering spars, stubby cargo derricks. Instead of acres of snowy cotton duck, thrashing machinery below decks. This very day, in fact, in a workshop in Buffalo, a giant engine is spinning in a thirty-day endurance test, expected to prove its fitness to provide the last touch needed for the success of the Government's plan, by giving American ships a motive power superior to all rivals. To that engine, the product of the technical staff of the Worthington Pump and Machinery Corporation, the eyes of the Shipping Board's experts, and of American Shipping men generally, are turned in hope and expectation.

World Commerce the Prize

The prize is the commerce of the world. In those golden days of the furthest and fiercest battles when the swift clipper ships raced across the seas, there were handsome business rewards hailing the daring sailormen on. Carries for export went to the ships whose records guaranteed swiftest delivery.

Filmy silks, rich brocades, teas and spices from the Far East—almost any freight demanded was paid to the first ship home with her cargo. So the captains crowded on sail and drove through tempest and fair weather to the limit of endurance of men, rope, canvas and stout hull.

Acres of gleaming white sail flashing in the sunshine, ships heeled over until lee rails dripped under, urged on to victory by the finest and most intrepid seamen ever born—it was a glorious age for America, when no vessel in the world could equal ours. The "Flying Cloud," whose record of eighty-nine days around the Horn from Sandy Hook to the Golden Gate, on two successive passages, still stands unapproached by any sailing vessel—the "Dreadnaught," that under Captain Samuel Bannister swept across the Atlantic in twelve days, from Sandy Hook to Cape Clear—such were the ships of those romantic days.

And then this blaze of glory that inspired artists and writers to pour out their souls in tribute to our wonderful ships and the men who sailed them, flickered down to a dull glow, and went out. Dingy, clumsy coal-burning craft, belching clouds of sooty smoke, wiped the clippers off the seas.

The officials are entirely too technical. Without a doubt, the open style of game, featuring intricate shifts and forward passes from many unusual formations, offers plenty of chances for the official to blow his whistle or horn if inclined to be severely technical.

Many of the leading coaches are contending that time after time the game is stopped for some infraction of the rule when the line had no bearing whatever on the play.

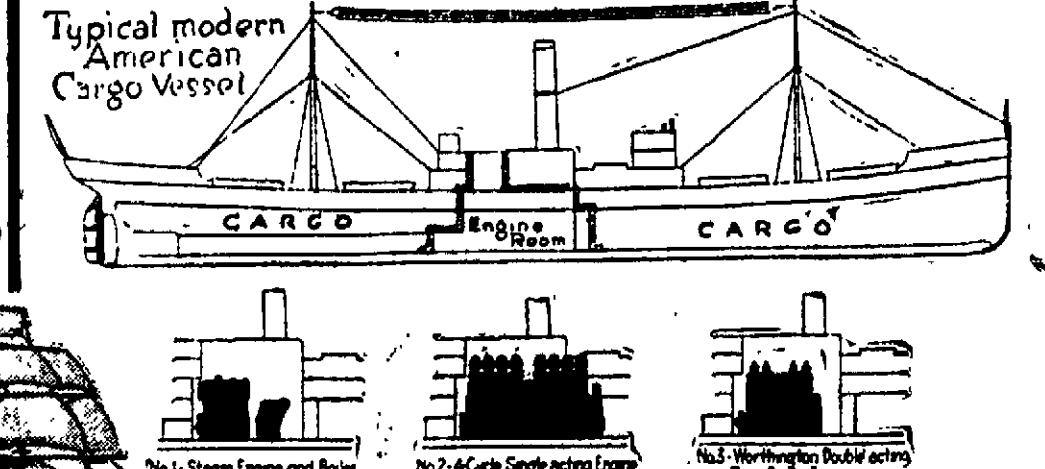

The coaches insist that the football fans want to see the players advance the ball rather than the officials and rightly so.

Scores of football games are spoiled for the spectator every year because the officials insist on going on parade.

Johnson May Buy Oakland Baseball Club

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 11. Jay C. Johnson, owner of the Oakland club, has attended the annual meeting of the Pacific Coast Baseball League, announced today that Walter Johnson, Washington American League pitcher, has virtually completed arrangements to purchase the Oakland club of the Coast League.

travels difficult situation, and the farmers of the West and cotton planters of the South, in particular, faced real suffering, as severe as the distress of the past two years, almost entirely because there was no American merchant marine worth mentioning to take their products to market under the protection of the American flag. If the country will think less of the American war achievement, great as it was, they say, and more of the problems of the neutral period, a better realization will be attained of the present day need of an American merchant marine.

War Program Justified

Neither the Democratic nor the Republican administrations have over regarded the 1500 steel ships of the Emergency Fleet program otherwise than as examples of this country's ability to organize and execute a big job quickly. Those ships, every successive Chairman of the Shipping Board has declared, purely as a war measure were worth their cost. The problem now, the Board's experts say, is to make them useful to whatever extent is economically possible.

America, according to the Department of Commerce, is doing sixteen per cent of the world's total business. We are exporting over four billions of dollars' worth of domestic goods every year; half of it manufactured goods. The United States, the Department of Commerce points out, is in the position of a merchant whose business has undergone a great expansion in territory, and who needs improved delivery service.

Everyone connected with the problem—former Chairmen Murray, Benson and Laaker, and present Chairman O'Connor, of the Shipping Board; Secretary of Commerce Hoover; and such private but nationally known shipping experts as President Franklin D. SNOW FALLING IN FARGO TODAY

Fargo, Nov. 11.—Snow was falling in Fargo today, starting at 9 a. m. It is the first of the present season.

Today's snow is in striking contrast with that which covered Fargo and North Dakota 5 years ago today. The blizzard of 1919, which came on November 10, virtually paralyzed transportation in this city and elsewhere while the snow drifted, in some places, to a depth of from 10 to 15 feet.

By Williams

Room for Expansion

"I want to demonstrate the practicability of living in new lands," he says, "then try to educate our people out of their almost superstitious fears concerning those parts of the world they never have seen."

"We must find places for expansion if we would escape serious internal complications. It is necessary to keep alive the virile pioneer spirit by providing new lands for pioneers to conquer."

Seven out of 10 of the "desert dangers" one reads about are not met, Stefansson insists.

"If you had been a schoolboy or girl in 1800," he explains, "you would have readily given to your teacher, 'All our nation west of the Mississippi River is a desert.' 'So it is with our deserts' today."

"Most folks think the arctic is an unbroken range of ice and snow, with atmosphere too freezing for comfortable life. Popular conception, yes, but far from the truth."

"The winters in the Dakotas, Montana and Manitoba, while shorter, are almost as cold."

750 Arctic Flowers

"The wheat belt of Siberia contains many portions colder than most of the arctic. The minimum temperature at the north pole is 60 degrees below zero, while in some habitable regions of Siberia we find relative temperatures of around 80 degrees below."

"There are 750 varieties of flowering plants in the polar region, rendered by the moderate and warm temperatures. In some localities the thermometer often shows 90 to 100 degrees in the shade."

"Flies and mosquitoes abound through these regions. Butterflies and bumblebees are found on the northern coast."

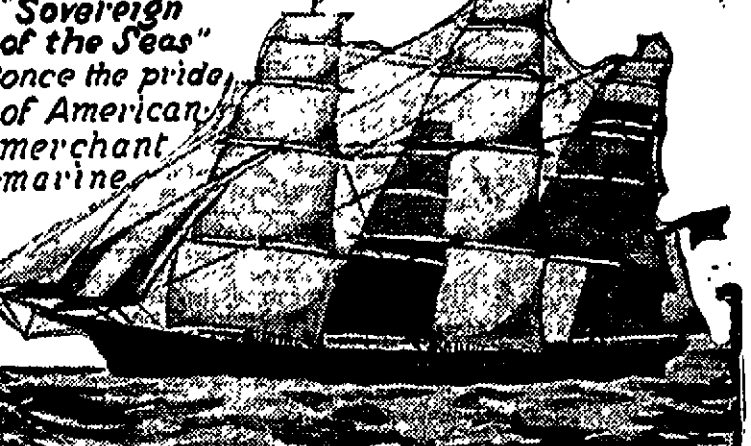

"The only snow in the summer is in the mountains. At Point Barrow, the most northerly tip of Alaska, you'd have to travel 300 miles south and climb a mountainside before you found any."

Similar superstitions surround the Australian dry deserts, the explorer asserts.

"Australia," he points out, "is generally pictured as a vast desert surrounded by a narrow seacoast strip of fertile country."

"That's a rather old misconception. There is no part of the continent where there is no food for stock, though drinking water often does present quite a problem."

"But even the dryness is exaggerated. It usually can be found if ing tests, as already stated, at the Worthington plant in Buffalo, that it meets these expectations in every way. It was produced after long and careful research and experimental work, by the Worthington technical staff headed by O. E. Jorgenson, a Diesel engineer of international reputation. It goes without saying that it is an American invention all through, protected by American patents. Dr. C. E. Lucke, Professor of Mechanical Engineering at Columbia University, characterizes it as "an extraordinary contribution to the mechanics of transportation."

The secret of the success of the new engine is said to be the fact that it is double-acting—that is, power is applied on both sides of its pistons, instead of only on one side as in earlier types of Diesel engines. This simple change—simple only in theory, however—means that the power of the engine is very nearly doubled, with no increase in its size, or putting it the other way, only a little more than half as large and heavy an engine is needed to furnish the required power to the ship. It also means that the engine can be started, stopped and reversed much more readily and surely than can the single-acting European types of engine. This in a ship, is of very great importance.

No Lack of Fuel

An engine of this type will never lack fuel. It can run on the very cheapest residues of petroleum distillation—the stuff that is left over from the refining process that furnishes gasoline for motorcars. Even if in some remote future the world's petroleum supply should be exhausted, Dr. Lucke predicts that the engine will still provide the cheapest and most efficient power, using tar oil distilled from some millions of tons of bituminous coal in the process that gives medicines and dyes on one hand, and tar and coke on the other.

Better Engines Needed

But not only the Shipping Board, but the many distinguished American engineers—such men as President Ferguson of the Newport News Shipbuilding & Drydock Company, and Daniel H. Cox, who supervised the construction of all the steel ships of the Government fleet—came to the conclusion that an American Diesel motor could be produced that would be almost as much superior to the European engine, as they in turn were to steam engines. The European engines were economical in fuel, but they were too large, too heavy—they actually took up more space in the ship than a steam engine. The American motor must eliminate that objection.

It is now confidently believed by such of these men as have inspected the new engine, now undergoing

WILTON CORN SHOW GOOD

Preliminary to State Show Produces Fine Exhibits

Wilton, N. D., Nov. 11.—Oscar Anstrom won 1st prize and Anton Kjersten 2nd and Dent Corn. Oscar Anstrom won 1st prize on Semi-dent Corn and Mike Gregory 2nd, and Walter Kirke 3rd on Dent Corn and R. J. Dennis 2nd, in the Wilton Corn show.

The First National Bank of Wilton planned a corn show about a month ago offering to give a 1st and 2nd cash prize on Dent Corn, Semi-dent Corn and Flint Corn. As a result 20 ten cent exhibits were brought in and 18 other exhibits consisting of cabbage, buckwheat, Kola Wheat, potatoes, mangels, rutabagas, cucumbers, pumpkins, summer squash, sweet clover, hulls oats, Ruby wheat, Black Macaroni wheat and Marquis wheat. One mangal weighed 19 pounds, one pumpkin 18 pounds, one rutabaga 12 1/2 pounds and one potato 3 pounds.

The corn exhibits were judged Saturday evening by J. M. Thompson and Harry Taplin of Wilton and County Agent A. L. Norling of Washington. Many of the samples were so excellent and so close that the judges found it hard to finally decide on the prize winners. A few real excellent samples would have been awarded prizes but for the fact that they contained too much moisture and were too soft. Had they been selected a week or two earlier they would have been placed at the top. The judges placed in the main requirements especially in the Dent Corn. As the Semi-dent and Flint are more sure to ripen every year, less stress was laid on maturity and dryness of sample.

Mr. Norling reported that there was no good a Corn Show as had been seen at some County Fairs and much credit for the successful show is due the First National Bank of Wilton and the following farmers who brought in the exhibits:

J. M. Thompson, Matt B. Gifford, Anton Kjersten, R. J. Dennis, Mike Gregory, Gander Hagen, Martin Hagen, John Dahlgren, Frank Peterson, J. Cleveland, Oscar Anstrom, A. D. Hitt, J. R. A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrown nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin under the nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost overnight.
